

Explain China Policy

Neutralize Southeast Asian Area

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle today advocated the neutralization of Southeast Asia and said relations with Red China are necessary to achieve it.

Speaking to a crowded news conference, De Gaulle thus defended his decision earlier this week to establish diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communist regime.

He declined to comment on the two-Chinas issue — that is recognizing both the Chinese Communist and Nationalist regimes.

In a news statement which took him more than an hour and a half to read he spent only about five minutes on the Chinese issue.

De Gaulle was careful, at two or three points, to describe the Chinese Communist regime as "Peking" or "peoples' China."

Speaking of China in general, De Gaulle said it is impossible for France or the West to have any policy for Southeast Asia or even for the Soviet Union that does not take China's influence into account.

For Southeast Asia, he mentioned Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia, India, Pakistan and Burma.

De Gaulle's previous advocacy of neutralization of Communist North Viet Nam and the U.S.-backed Republic of South Viet Nam was a factor in the Saigon coup executed by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh Thursday.

De Gaulle sidestepped any direct comment on the Nationalist regime of President Chiang Kai-Shek, or its possible place in a two-Chinas policy.

He avoided mentioning the diplomatic hassle which already has developed between Paris and Peking over whether France can maintain relations with Nationalist China.

US Calls On Reds To Join Rocket Ban

GENEVA (AP) — The United States called on the Soviet Union today to join in freezing all development of military rockets and other means of delivering nuclear arms.

U.S. Delegate William C. Foster explained the American proposal at the 17-nation disarmament conference. It is one of several suggestions President Johnson made when the conference resumed Jan. 21.

Foster said a freeze of nuclear weapons carrier "would be an accomplishment far beyond any 'confidence-building' measure in significance, yet one that could be achieved in a reasonable period of time."

It would also permit a significant cut of military budgets, reduce world tension and bring closer general disarmament, he added.

There was no immediate reaction from Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin.

The American proposal would freeze strategic missiles, aircraft and antimissile missiles. No further technical development of these delivery vehicles would be allowed, and they would be kept at a constant numerical level.

East and West would agree to allow the testing of missiles without atomic heads to ensure continued reliability of the systems. Each missile taken out of operation after the freeze would be destroyed and replaced by a missile of exactly the same type.

New County Extension Agent Is Elected At Thursday Meeting

Larry Hale, presently the Ralls County extension agent at New London, Missouri, was named the successor of Merle Vaughan, who vacated the position of Pettis County extension director and agricultural agent to take another position.

Hale was chosen for the local post at a meeting of the Pettis County Extension Council Thursday night at the Courthouse here.

Testimony In Hoffa's Jury Trial

Five Being Tried On Charges Of Jury Fix Attempt

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The government plans to call a nightclub operator billed as a major witness to the stand today in the trial of James R. Hoffa on jury tampering charges.

Chief prosecutor James Neal said the witness, Dallas Hall of Nashville, would be called after the jury hears a red-haired West Virginia secretary, whose appearance Thursday was cut short by defense protests.

Hoffa, president of the International Teamsters Union, and five other men are being tried before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson on charges of attempting to fix the jury in Hoffa's 1962 trial at Nashville, Tenn., on a conspiracy charge.

Through telephone records and a parade of attractive women witnesses, the government tried Thursday to link Hoffa with two of Hoffa's codefendants — Nicholas J. Tweel of Huntington, W.Va., and Allen Dorfman of Chicago.

The government claims Hoffa and Dorfman induced Tweel to offer "money and things of value" to Hall if he would contact or get others to contact jurors in the Nashville trial.

Two employees of a Nashville supper club testified of a tour of nightspots with Tweel during which he talked for half an hour or so with Hoffa. They said this occurred in October 1962, the month Hoffa's trial began. It ended nine weeks later in a hung jury.

To Disburse Half Of Fund Requests

Agencies participating in the Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund will receive immediate distribution of money in the amount of 50 per cent of the budget figure approved for them. This action was authorized by the Board of Directors at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce with President J. E. Simon presiding.

This means that $35,595.42 will be distributed now. The total approved budget figure is $71,190.85.

The distribution will be made from cash on hand of $44,646 reported by Treasurer James McNeil that the total amount subscribed to date was $62,627.63; total cash received and deposited $47,922.31; balance due on the pledges, $14,705.32. Disbursements to date are $3,275.91.

The board agreed that distribution of funds would only be made from cash on hand as pledges are paid and accumulate. It is hoped that a further distribution approximating 30 per cent of the budget will be made in the months to come, making a total of 80 per cent.

The board encouraged those who have not paid pledges to do so as soon as possible, and those who have not yet pledged or contributed to the United Fund for 1964 do likewise. The goal was $78,000.

Prepare To Send Troops

Servicemen To Cyprus Under Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States informed Britain, Greece and Turkey today that it is prepared to contribute troops to a peace-keeping force in Cyprus if they will agree to terms for an attempt at settlement of the basic Cypriot political crisis.

U.S. officials said the total proposed force, which would be drawn from several NATO countries, should be about 10,000 men — of which the U.S. contingent would be between 1,000 and 2,000.

Some officials said the U.S. contribution would be around battalion size.

But informants said there is no agreement yet on the package proposed by the United States. If it is not accepted the deal is off, officials said.

The U.S. proposal was made in several capitals simultaneously after a week of intensive diplomatic stage setting in an atmosphere of crisis.

The final decision on the U.S. position — following an urgent appeal from Britain a week ago — was made by President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball Thursday.

Ball was acting secretary of state while Dean Rusk was in Japan and Korea on a trip from which Rusk returned Wednesday night.

Announce Site For New Plant

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The Associated Electric Cooperative announced today it had selected a site near Thomas Hill, Mo., for its $30 million steam generating plant.

Neil Adams, general manager, said the board of directors made the final decision on the site Thursday after studying surveys of six sites in the north-eastern part of the state.

Withdraw Proposals To Merge Trains

CHICAGO (AP) — The Southern Pacific and Rock Island Railroads withdrew Thursday a proposal to consolidate two daily passenger trains they run between Chicago and Los Angeles.

The railroads petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission in November to consolidate their jointly operated Golden State Limited with westbound No. 39 and Eastbound No. 40.

At least a week of debate and wrangling over amendments faces the House before a vote is taken on the omnibus measure aimed at strengthening federal authority to deal with racial discrimination wherever it exists.

Shaped by a bipartisan group and strongly backed by Democratic and Republican House leaders, it is expected to emerge from the House in fairly good shape, ready for the tougher struggle awaiting it in the Senate.

Ten hours have been set aside for general debate and the House will meet again Saturday in hopes of using them all up by Saturday night and starting on the amendments Monday.

Under House rules each member is entitled to speak for five minutes on any amendment.

The Republicans, most of whom plan to leave town to attend Lincoln Day rallies the week starting Feb. 9, would like to complete action on the bill by next Friday. The leadership has said only that a final vote will come by Feb. 11.

Cut CD Funds

Approve 1964 County Budget

The Pettis County Court approved a $498,560.48 county budget for 1964 Friday morning, an increase of roughly $32,000 over the amount appropriated last year.

The budget was prepared by County Clerk J. H. Green and approved by the three judges of the County Court: Presiding Judge C. Berry Elliott, Judge C. M. Purchase of the Western District and E. L. Birdsong of the Eastern District.

A breakdown of the county budget in its six classes is as follows:

- Class 1, care of the mentally ill, $14,500.
- Class 2, circuit court and election expenses, $39,456.
- Class 3, county roads and bridges, $86,965.07.
- Class 4, salaries for county officers and office supplies, $178,252.10.
- Class 5, contingent and emergency fund, $139,475.
- Class 6, funds set aside for items not included in previous classes, $39,912.31.

The budget is to be submitted to County Treasurer Virgil Houchens within five days. The county is bound by state statute to prepare its yearly budget before Feb. 1 of each year. Budget for the previous year, 1963, totaled $466,118.05.

Included in the county's budget is $2,000 appropriated as the county share for Civil Defense operations. The amount budgeted represents a substantial reduction in comparison with last year's budget and expenditures for the agency.

Last year the county budgeted $4,831 for Civil Defense and the agency actually expended $5,289.31, exceeding their budget by roughly $400.

Civil Defense Director Jack Kraus proposed a county budget of $6,618.50 for fiscal 1964, including a proposed salary increase from $4,800 to $5,200 per year for the director and the addition of an assistant director at a salary of $1,200 a year.

A like amount was proposed for the city of Sedalia's share of the Civil Defense budget. Local appropriations for Civil Defense are matched by the state CD agency.

Director Kraus did not comment on the budget, but requested a meeting with all Sedalia news media representatives. The meeting was to be held at 1 p.m. Friday.

Ranger 6 carried six television cameras designed to snap up to 3,000 closeup pictures of the moon in the final 10 minutes of its flight.

A total of $3,484.80 was tallied Thursday night before March of Dimes officials quit tabulating returns from the Mothers March.

Tabulation of collections were scheduled to continue Friday and the drive is expected to exceed last year's effort which netted approximately $4,000. The Sedalia Jaycee Wives were in charge of the Mothers March this year.

The project is for grading and seal coat surfacing from proposed U.S. Route 50, north. Total cost of the work is $44,034.

The contractors have been notified that they may begin working on or about Feb. 10.

Construction will be carried out under the supervision of the Department's District 4 office at Kansas City, where Carl E. Klammer is the district engineer.

O. B. Ayers, district engineer's assistant in charge of construction, will direct the work with B. A. Estabrooks of Sedalia as the resident engineer in active charge.

The Missouri State Highway Commission has completed contracts for work on 66.8 miles of the state's highways extending into 16 counties. The bids were received on Jan. 16 and total $6,925,669.

Probably Will Hit the Moon, They Maintain

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Space scientists reaimed the off - course camera - carrying Ranger 6 by remote control early today and later said "we probably will hit the moon."

Dr. William Pickering, director of Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which is controlling the flight, said "the midcourse correction seemed normal."

"Everything continues to look very good," said Pickering. "On the basis of information radioed back by the spacecraft, I can say that we probably will hit the moon."

Signals pointing the spacecraft dead center at the moon and igniting its small booster rocket were flashed 101,000 miles across space at 12:30 a.m., almost 17 hours after the launching at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

At 1 a.m., officials announced that the signals had been received by the spacecraft and that the 50-pound-thrust booster rocket had ignited.

Plans called for this to increase the spacecraft's 4,343-mile-an-hour speed by 92 m.p.h. and thus pull the trajectory toward the center of the moon.

Prior to the maneuver, Ranger 6 was on a course that would have missed the moon by 600 miles.

Ranger 6 carried six television cameras designed to snap up to 3,000 closeup pictures of the moon in the final 10 minutes of its flight.

Helping Hand To Farmers

Johnson Seeks Broader Federal Farm Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress today the government should extend a bigger helping hand to the nation's farmers. He called for broader federal payments to them and urged efforts for reducing rural poverty.

The President sent his views to Capitol Hill in a special farm message.

In taking a firm stand in support of federal intervention in agriculture, he may have laid down the line for his party's election-year battle on the farm issue. He asked for revival of part of the controversial Brannan Plan.

Many Republicans and some farm groups want the government to make a gradual withdrawal from government price, production and marketing control programs for agriculture.

Johnson's proposals for commodity programs contained no surprises for farm leaders. They were in line with those advanced last year by the late President John F. Kennedy and by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Key recommendations included:

—Changes in the commodity programs for cotton, wheat, milk and potatoes. The revisions are aimed at improving the income of the producers of these products and at strengthening the family farm.

—A five-year extension of the Food for Peace program and an expansion of the domestic food stamp program. More than $12 billion in farm surpluses has moved to needy countries under the Food for Peace plan. The stamp plan enables needy persons to buy increased quantities of food at regular grocery stores.

—Greater use of human and material resources in rural America under programs aimed at combating poverty, largely

Marks Time As Junta Organizes

See Possibility Of New Attacks, Internal Struggle

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam marked time today as Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's new military junta faced a major job of government reorganization, threats of heightened Viet Cong attack and the possibility of more army power struggles.

The nation continued its business on momentum following the army corps commander's seizure of power Thursday in a quick, bloodless coup.

Khanh, 37, who vowed to step up the war against the Communist guerrillas, appointed a 35-member military junta. There was no announcement of who would hold the key posts.

The tanks and troops that helped overthrow the old junta disappeared from Saigon today.

Most people had paid scant attention to developments.

As the new regime slapped posters on walls and broadcast slogans over the radio, one Vietnamese official commented: "This kind of thing has been going on so long and so often we Saigonese are a little bored."

Khanh today made his first public appearance since the coup. He went to the Saigon airport to say goodbye to Gen. Le Van Ty, who reportedly is going to the United States for medical treatment.

Wreckage And Bodies Returned

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — The bodies of three U.S. Air Force officers whose trainer plane was shot down over Communist East Germany were brought back to their home base today.

An honor guard of 300 of their comrades stood at attention and an Air Force band played the Star Spangled Banner as the three flag-draped coffins were borne from the jet transport that brought them from West Berlin.

The three widows watched as the bodies were brought back to the U.S. air base from which they set out Tuesday on a training mission. The plane strayed into East Germany and was shot down by Soviet fighters.

Ambassador George McGhee, ranking U.S. official in Germany, said in Berlin the shooting down of the unarmed plane was a "shocking and horrible affair... entirely unnecessary."

An honor guard of 40 officers with McGhee and Maj. Gen. James Polk, U.S. commandant in Berlin, headed a brief ceremony when the bodies were flown out of Berlin.

The officers, whose unarmed jet trainer was shot down Tuesday by Soviet fighters, were Lt. Col. Gerald Hannaford, 41, Austin, Tex.; Capt. Donald Millard, 33, Ukiah, Calif.; and Capt. John Lorraine, 34, Jacksonville, Fla.

Emphasizing Four Areas Next Month

This Sunday marks the beginning of "Prove Your Love" month at the Faith Baptist Church.

Throughout the month an emphasis will be placed on being "whole-hearted" in four areas:

1. Be present in all of the regular services of the church.
2. Be 100 per cent on the six point record in Sunday school.
3. Endeavor to take at least one visitor to any service.
4. Read the Bible and pray each day.

Hearts have been constructed with these four compartments on them and members and visitors have been asked to sign them for the entire month of February. These hearts are displayed on a red and white "heart tree" in the church auditorium.

Each Sunday of the month a different heart theme will be emphasized. This Sunday will be "Searching Heart." Sunday. The topic of the morning message will be "How Can I Know That I Am Saved?" — a message on the assurance of salvation. The choir will present "Search Me, O God," and special music will be brought by Mrs. Roger Martin and Mrs. Mel Crumbliss singing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

"The Greatest of These Is Love" is the pastor's evening message, which deals with the great love chapter of the Bible, 1 Corinthians 13. Mrs. Kenneth Keele will sing "Why Should He Love Me So?" and the choir will present "Jesus Loves Me," an arrangement by the choir director's father, Dr. John R. Rice. The Lord's Supper will be observed during the evening service. The young people of the church will study Isaiah through Joel for their program after the evening service.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 4, at 7:15 p.m. the ladies of the church will meet at the home of Mrs. John Swisher for their monthly missionary project meeting. Refreshments will be served afterward.

On Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. the church will continue its study of the book of Revelation. The lesson will be on Chapter 14.

Presbyterian Church Topic At Broadway

"From Missions to Mission" is the sermon subject of Dr. Garner S. Odell Sunday morning at the Broadway Presbyterian Church at 10:45 a.m. Church School starts at 9:30 a.m.

A meeting of Men's Council of Presbytery will be held Sunday at 2:15 p.m., starting with a "coffee" and social.

There will be a meeting of Church School superintendents and officers Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Boy Scout Troop 65 will meet Wednesday in fellowship hall at 7 p.m. The Adult Choir will rehearse Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. A joint meeting of session and deacons will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on the third floor of the educational building.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Association will be held Thursday, starting at 10:30. Prayer fellowship will be at 11:30 and a luncheon at noon. Following the luncheon there will be a program, with Mrs. H. N. Branson in charge. Group 2, Mrs. Foster McGuire, chairman, will serve the luncheon.

The Junior Choir rehearsal will be held Thursday at 4:15 p.m. The first class for communicants will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. This class is for young people in the seventh grade and up.

Emphasizing Four Areas Next Month

This Sunday marks the beginning of "Prove Your Love" month at the Faith Baptist Church.

Throughout the month an emphasis will be placed on being "whole-hearted" in four areas:

1. Be present in all of the regular services of the church.
2. Be 100 per cent on the six point record in Sunday school.
3. Endeavor to take at least one visitor to any service.
4. Read the Bible and pray each day.

Hearts have been constructed with these four compartments on them and members and visitors have been asked to sign them for the entire month of February. These hearts are displayed on a red and white "heart tree" in the church auditorium.

Each Sunday of the month a different heart theme will be emphasized. This Sunday will be "Searching Heart" Sunday.

The topic of the morning message will be "How Can I Know That I Am Saved?" — a message on the assurance of salvation. The choir will present "Search Me, O God," and special music will be brought by Mrs. Roger Martin and Mrs. Mel Crumbliss singing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

"The Greatest of These Is Love" is the pastor's evening message, which deals with the great love chapter of the Bible, I Corinthians 13. Sunday School Class For All At Federated

There are classes for all ages in the Sunday School which meets at the Federated Church Sunday morning at 9:30.

The minister's sermon topic for Sunday morning is "The Pause That Refreshes." The choir will sing as the anthem, "My God and I."

Mrs. Morris Lees, organist, will play as prelude, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer"; as offertory, "Meditation in a Chapel"; as postlude, "Make a Joyful Noise." Mrs. Charles Plumlee and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Raabe will greet the congregation at the doors.

Members of Pilgrim Fellowship will attend the UCYM youth meeting at the Wesley Methodist Church Sunday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock. The Pilgrim Fellowship will not meet at the church Sunday evening and there will be no Sunday evening chapel service.

Members of the Federated Church will leave at 7 p.m. Sunday for California, where they will attend the installation service of the Rev. M. J. Kirchoff.

The Sunday School teachers will meet Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church parlor.

Boy Scout Troop 51 will meet at 7 p.m. Monday. Sgt. Bernard Rohde and Raymond Banks are the scoutmasters.

The choir will rehearse at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the church parlor.

Feb. 9 Boy Scout Troop 51 will worship in a body at the Federated Church. Scoutmasters and Boy Scouts will assist in the conduct of the morning service.

Two Sedalians Nominated For Military Schools

John William Vandekamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Vandekamp, 406 East Seventh, has been nominated to the US Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Col., by Congressman William J. Randall, (D), Fourth District. He will compete against five other youths from the same district for the one vacancy authorized.

Vandekamp was also named third alternate for appointment to the US Military Academy at West Point.

Charles Robert Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hogan, 602 West Seventh, was named second alternate to the US Naval Academy.

Congressman Randall has notified each young man of his nomination by telegram. Since all applicants must successfully complete scholastic entrance and physical fitness examinations, to receive the coveted appointment is now up to the individual nominee himself.

through greater emphasis on the Agriculture Department's rural areas development program. He said he would be more specific in a later message on poverty, but as a starter recommended enlarged watershed and flood prevention programs under federal aid.

How much would his farm program cost?

Johnson had given the figures 10 days ago in his budget message. He asked $5.8 billion for over-all farm program spending in year starting next July 1—$1.1 billion below this year's total.

Of the new total, about $1.7 billion would be spent for farm aid programs—compared with $1.9 billion this year. The rest would be spent on research, Food for Peace and other programs not providing direct payments to farmers.

An administration spokesman said the recommendations for broadened payments to increase farm income would not add to the cost of farm programs. The payments would come, he said, from savings that would result through a planned reduction in surpluses.

The President said some of the programs needed improving. Bills that would carry out his ideas are already pending in Congress.

Johnson would use what in agriculture is commonly called compensatory payments out of the treasury to augment the market income of cotton, wheat, milk and potato producers.

Such payments were a feature of a controversial farm plan advanced in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture under President Harry S. Truman. This plan was never accepted by Congress. It has run into bitter opposition from most Republicans, some Democrats and a number of farm groups, notably the Farm Bureau.

Value of the radio was set at $4 and the gun and shells were valued at $23.

Accidents

A Boeing security guard was seriously injured about 3:50 p.m. Thursday when his 1964 Rambler stationwagon and a 1963 Chevrolet sedan were in collision on the Muddy Creek bridge on west U. S. Highway 50. The two vehicles, occupied only by their drivers, were demolished.

Stanley Floyd Bohn, 27, of 1210 South New York, the security guard, was the most seriously injured. Bohn suffered a severe laceration of the left temple to the hair line, small laceration on the inside of the lower lip, multiple abrasions and a cerebral concussion. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of head injury.

Bohn, who was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in a private car, was treated by Dr. J. M. Rodeman and Dr. J. W. Maunderson. He was admitted for further observation.

Teddy Gene Phinney, 35, Raytown, Mo., and a salesman for the Kansas City Pump Co., was the driver of the other car. Phinney was taken to the hospital by Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol.

Sgt. Van Winkle explained the accident occurred as Phinney was headed west on Highway 50. His Chevrolet struck the northeast steel rail abutment of the bridge, then skidded 22 yards along the railing on the right side, when the car suddenly skidded cross-wise of the pavement, the front end toward the north. The Rambler stationwagon was already on the bridge and unable to stop. The left front of the car crashed into the left rear of the Chevrolet, sending it spinning counter-clockwise and the right front smashed into the south rail of the bridge.

As the Rambler crashed into the Chevrolet it ripped away the entire left rear portion of the sedan, including the left fender and gasoline tank. As the Chevrolet spun around after being hit, articles were thrown out of the trunk which was opened when the rear fender was ripped off. A suit case with papers struck the north side of the bridge so hard that it ripped open and the papers were scattered and dropped off on to the bank of Muddy Creek, some 15 feet below.

The station wagon continued eastward on the highway for 57 yards, when it swerved to the left crossing the highway, went over the north shoulder and down an embankment of about 20 feet and then crashed head-on into a tree. Bohn had his seat belt fastened, probably saving him from more serious injuries.

Bacon's wrecker pulled the station wagon back on to the highway and towed it to Bacon's Service Station in Sedalia.

Sgt. Van Winkle reported he gave a State Patrol summons to Phinney in connection with the accident.

About 5 p.m. Thursday an accident was reported on U.S. Highway 50 near the Black Forest Motel, a short distance west of where the Muddy Creek bridge wreck had occurred.

Sgt. Van Winkle investigated this accident and reported a 1957 Ford sedan, driven by Ervin Driver, 50, of Emma, Mo., which was headed west following the Bacon wrecker, had slowed almost to a stop when the wrecker made a left turn off of the highway. A 1963 Plymouth convertible driven by Mrs. Geraldine Vergusson Stayer, 39, of the Graham Trailer Court, Warrensburg, was behind the Ford and was unable to stop in time to avoid colliding with the Ford.

The rear of the Ford was damaged but was able to be driven off under its own power, while extensive damage resulted to the convertible and it had to be towed back to Sedalia.

No injuries were reported in this mishap.

A one car accident on Pettis County Highway C, about three and a half miles south of Sedalia, caused injuries to the three occupants, all brothers. The car, a 1951 Plymouth sedan, was extensively damaged. The accident occurred about 3:40 p.m. Thursday.

Elvin Fox, 21, of 9118 Raytown Road, Raytown, driver of the automobile, told Trooper Richard Joos of the State Highway Patrol, he had gone around a curve and when the car skidded on the slick blacktop pavement he lost control of the machine and it overturned. He said a witness told him the car flipped over three times.

Trooper Joos said the car went off the pavement and down a 12-foot embankment. Trooper Joos issued a State Patrol summons to Fox as a result of the accident, and he posted bond with the sheriff for his appearance before Magistrate Frank T. Armstrong.

Centenarian Keeping Eye On the News

By TENNEY GRIFFIN
The Valdosta, Ga. Times

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—May-be it's the smell of printer's ink or his interest in everything, but E. L. Turner intends to keep an eye on his newspaper as he retires at 100.

The title of publisher emeritus gives him the right to do just that. As for the years ahead, he says, "I'll let them take care of themselves."

Turner will be 101 on March 6. "After 75 memorable years, time has taken its toll," he told the board of directors this week as he retired from active management of the Valdosta Daily Times.

He stepped down as publisher and turned his job over to another Turner, his son E. Mann Turner, who at 75 is following his father's example of longevity.

The elder Turner came to Valdosta in 1889 as a $40-a-month printer. He nurtured the newspaper with thrift and wit from a tiny weekly to a daily with a circulation of 14,500.

The son of a weekly newspaper publisher at Alapaha, Ga., Turner worked as a printer at Hawkinsville and Thomasville, Ga., before taking the job in Valdosta.

By 1905 he had become general manager of the then biweekly South Georgia Times when it became necessary to report the proceedings of a bizarre murder trial. He decided to print the paper daily to cover the trial.

The Times never went back to the biweekly schedule.

Baker Probe
Turns Again
To Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Robert G. Baker investigation turns again today to disputed testimony about the purchase of advertising time seven years ago on an Austin, Tex., television station controlled by President Johnson's family.

Called for a hearing behind closed doors was Albert G. Young, a witness demanded by Republicans in an effort to resolve what they have called a conflict of sworn statements from White House aide Walter Jenkins and Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent.

The Senate Rules Committee is investigating whether Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, engaged in outside business dealings that conflicted with his official duties or involved other improprieties.

The dispute over advertising time on the Austin station was set off by Reynolds

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I did not care for your smart aleck remarks about boys who are named Shirley. A dear friend of mine had a son named Shirley. I admired the boy a great deal. He was the type of young man every mother wants her son to be. So, when the Lord blessed us with a boy I named him Shirley. That was 40 years ago. Our son Shirley never had to fight his way through school or anywhere else. In fact I can't recall that he was ever in a fight.

For your information, Ann Landers, there were very few girls named Shirley until Shirley Temple came along, about 35 years ago. Before that time there were more male Shirleys than female. I think you owe all male Shirleys an apology. —PLAIN JANE.

Dear Plain: I didn't realize there were so many male Shirleys around until that letter appeared in print. The Shirleys didn't write to me—their mothers did. Thanks to all of you.

Dear Ann Landers: May I be you for just a moment and respond to "Firm Believer"—the couple who has never served liquor in their home because it is against their religious teaching? They feared since they were moving to a new city and would be traveling with a faster set this practice might hurt them in business.

My husband and I have been married over 20 years. We have entertained nationally-known figures in politics, education, medicine, law, religion and business. We have never served liquor in our home and our parties are fabulously successful.

Why? Because what makes a really great evening is stimulating conversation, good food and warm friendship. When these three ingredients are present no one misses alcohol. Only when the hostess has failed must she turn to the liquor cabinet for help.—FIRM BELIEVER NUMBER TWO.

Dear Firm: Welcome to my corner. Friend: I've never bought the idea that liquor is a must at a party. I've seen too many evenings ruined because nice people got drunk and became unruly, maudlin, belligerent, foolish, sloppy, amorous, sick, insulting and just plain stupid. It's bad enough when this happens to ordinary folks but when it happens to brilliant, lovely people, it is truly pathetic.

Dear Ann Landers: When our eldest daughter became engaged she informed us that she wanted to be married in the home of her fiancé's parents. My husband and I wanted Marge to be married in her own home, but we were unable to persuade her to change her mind. When she said, "Their home is nicer than ours and I want as beautiful a setting as I can have," we had nothing more to say.

Now, our second daughter is planning to do the same thing. She will be engaged in February and already she's talking about coming down the spiral staircase in the Smith home.

We are not paupers, Ann. Our home is lovely, and we can afford to have a beautiful wedding. We paid for the first wedding and we plan to pay for the second one as well. We just don't want to be asked to go to someone else's house again. Are we wrong? —MOM AND DAD.

Dear Mom and Dad: Your daughter should respect your wishes—even if you lived in a pup-tent. It's too bad you let Number One get away with it. Now I hope you have better luck with Number Two.

DETROIT (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower broke the smoking habit by keeping his pockets stuffed with cigarettes.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit says Eisenhower, who was in Detroit to speak at a Republican party dinner Wednesday night, told him he was once a heavy smoker but hasn't had a cigarette in years. "The President told me that he used to go around with cigarettes in all his pockets while he was trying to give up smoking. He would pass them out to other smokers but not touch them himself, because this gave him a feeling of accomplishment and superiority."

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Clergymen shouldn't smoke cigarettes, says the Rev. Dr. Billy Graham.

"The Bible does not say smoking cigarettes is a sin," said Graham. "But I think for a person to deliberately endanger his health is wrong."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jim Brown, scourge of the National Football League, has faced a movie camera for the first time.

"Man," said the Cleveland Browns' fullback, "there's no line in pro football half as tough as that camera. I don't see how these actors stand this rugged pace."

Brown took a screen test for the part of a cavalry sergeant in a 20th Century-Fox western.

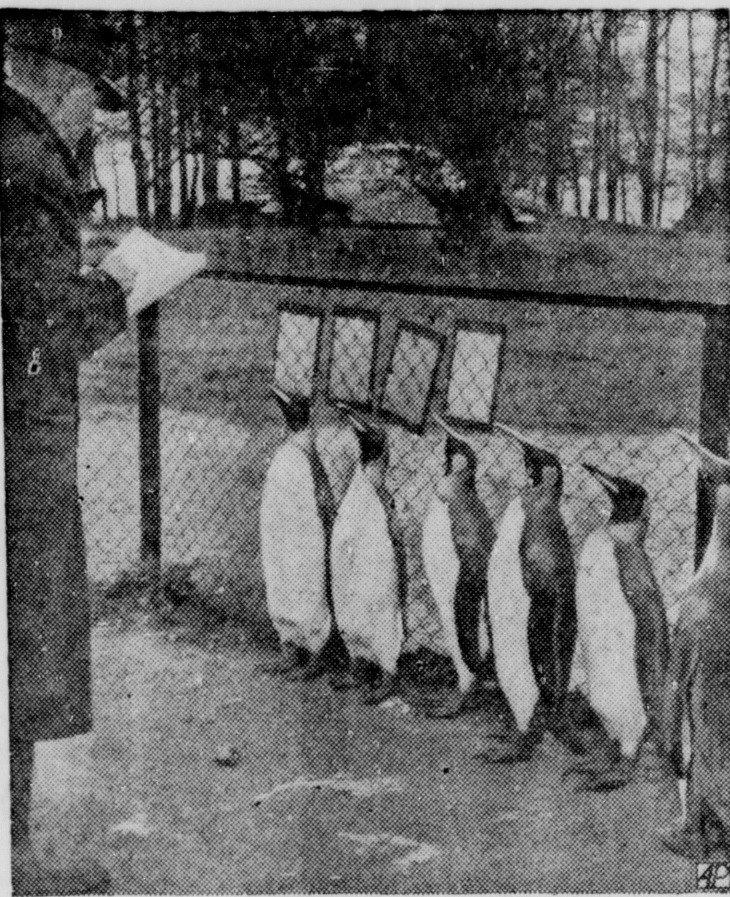

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A detailed schedule awaited Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for his visit to Pittsburgh today. Copies were distributed to supporters of the senator, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Across the bottom of the copies was this paragraph:

"This schedule is firm. It has been approved by some very important people. Do not make changes unless you are very, very important and are willing to risk chaos."

MORGA, Calif. (AP) — Harasse business executives who feel the need to get away from it all should do just that, says astronaut M. Scott Carpenter.

"Two weeks in orbit would help them immeasurably if they could afford the expense of a space flight," Carpenter told a news conference. "The condition of weightlessness is the most relaxing situation you can imagine."

Carpenter attended a two-day symposium on "The American Businessman in Space."

Aliens Must Report Status In January

KANSAS CITY (AP)—By midnight Friday, 30,000 aliens in Kansas and Missouri must have told Uncle Sam where they are, what they are doing, and how they got into the country.

The penalty for failure to register in January can be up to 30 days in prison and a $200 fine, or deportation. But prosecutions are based on willful failure to register, and it is difficult to prove intent, so prosecutions are rare.

Forms for reporting are available at all post offices, at the Immigration and Naturalization Service office in Kansas City, and at the branch office in St. Louis.

Last year there were about 11,000 aliens in Kansas and 19,000 in Missouri. H. I. Major, chief of immigration and naturalization for the two states, said over the years the figure remain about the same.

Mexicans are the largest foreign-born group in Kansas, and many live in Wichita. Last year, 167 Russians reported themselves to be permanent residents of the state. There were 740 Cubans, many listing themselves as refugees from the Castro regime, but a large number are believed to have returned to the more familiar climate of Florida.

The largest foreign born group in Missouri is German. Germans have migrated to the state in a fairly steady stream that started before the Civil War.

Viet Nam Gets Wary Eye From US

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington warily eyed the new South Vietnamese leadership Thursday and sought to learn how much damage the latest Saigon upheaval has done to the war effort against Red guerrillas.

President Johnson conferred by telephone with Secretary of State Dean Rusk several times, the White House said, but beyond this offered no comment.

At the State Department, press officer Richard I. Phillips said officials are studying the reports of the coup to ascertain whether the question of recognition of the regime headed by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh will arise. The issue involves legal technicalities as well as policy.

"We have no reports that any Americans were injured in the recent events in Saigon, and the situation there is reported to be quiet," Phillips added. "Until we receive more complete information, and an assessment of the situation in South Viet Nam, will have no further comment."

Meanwhile, U.S. aid is continuing. The United States, deeply committed in the campaign against the Red Viet Cong guerrillas, is spending some $500 million a year on military and economic aid in the Southeast Asian country. Reports reaching Washington concerning the overthrow of the Saigon junta were described as still incomplete and reflecting confusion.

Nonetheless, the consensus in U.S. quarters was that the coup will have an impairing effect on the war effort. Just how much remains undetermined.

Some U.S. authorities figure: 1. The greatest harm from the coup comes from the atmosphere of political instability it created. Strong, stable and popularly supported government is needed for successful prosecution of a tough guerrilla war. But one coup tends to breed another.

2. The new coup was less disruptive than that of last November, when the military deposed and killed President Ngo Dinh

Diem and his brother. This time the overthrow was bloodless, quick and did not pull fighting forces off antiguerrilla posts in the field.

Phillips denied that U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was informed in advance of Khanh's coup, or that the United States expected it. He said there are always rumors of coups in Saigon, but advance information on this one was not given to the United States.

An Image Needs Changing

You may argue whether the national pastime is still baseball or whether professional football has displaced it, but the real sport of the proletariat is neither of these. It's knocking Congress.

Seldom in history has that body been under such attack. It's not the United States Congress any more; it's the Do-Nothing Congress, whether one is referring to the 87th or 88th or any other.

The sad thing is that so many people these days take it for granted that the constitutional purpose of Congress is mainly to criticize the President (whoever he may be) and keep him from grabbing too much power, and to pass only those laws which one side is able to jam through with main force or slip by on the grease slopped over from the ever-normal pork barrel.

Aside from this basic function, the popular impression goes, congressmen divide their time between endless hearings on gangsters and other seamy citizens and holding interviews with reporters in which they discuss what legislation is going to be considered in the current session, when it will go through, how it will be gotten through, how it will be changed before it gets through, or why it won't go through at all.

True, a romantic picture of congressmen still survives among the young—a picture of white-maned, floppy-tied solons debating hotly in the aisles of Senate or House.

Actually, most speeches printed in the Congressional Record were never delivered. Those that were, were read during an off-hour when page boys outnumbered the congressmen present.

Just about everyone has a grievance against Congress. However, those who jump on it because it didn't immediately rush through the administration's foreign aid or Medicare or civil rights bills are on just as shaky ground as those who maintain the fiction that Congress is simply deliberating.

Would that it were, for this is its function, and is the best guarantee of wise legislation.

Unfortunately, the majority of congressmen never get a chance to vote on these bills, let alone deliberate on them. For an excess of checks and balances in the congressional machinery allows them to be bottled up in perpetuity through the will of certain key committee heads.

Can anyone truly say that the great issues (or, if you prefer, pseudo issues) of our times, such as Medicare, have really been debated and weighed and considered by the people's representatives?

This is the trouble with Congress, and only Congress itself can provide the remedy which will enable it to regain its lost prestige.

The alternative is an increasing alienation from the people and a growing cynicism on their part that could be fatal to the Republic.

Comforts of Home

Thule Air Base in Greenland is one of the most rugged tours of duty for men serving in the defense of the Western Hemisphere. Most any diversion is welcome in the cold and barren land.

When a group of Royal Canadian Air Force men came to Thule to conduct a two-month project on measurement of infrared rays at high altitudes, the thing they missed most was trees. Coming from a country of huge forests, they solemnly staked out an area as the Thule National Forest and posted signs warning of the dangers of unquenched campfires and carelessly tossed matches.

The only trouble was, there wasn't a single tree in the whole of Thule!

Eight months later, the team came back for another tour of duty. They brought with them a fir tree—together with the necessary sod—and set it up in their headquarters. Thule National Tree—uh, Forest—was in business.

The antifire campaign has been tremendously successful. There hasn't been a single forest fire to date.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Baker Didn't Pay for Swimming Pool

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With the sour notes from President Johnson's $584 stereo set ringing happily in their ears, Republicans are now chasing down tips that Bobby Baker not only provided the hi-fi but also the financing for the Johnsons' former home. They have heard, too, that the swimming pool was a gift from Bobby.

What the bloodhounds haven't yet discovered, however, is that they are hot on the trail of the wrong Baker. The fashionable estate, which the Johnsons purchased from Perle "The Hostess with the Mostest" Mesta, was financed by Robert C., not Robert G., Baker.

Robert G., of course, is the irrepressible Bobby, Johnson's former get-rich-quick Senate aide.

Robert C. is president of American Security and Trust, which holds the mortgage on the Johnson home.

The two Bakers are in no way related, and Bobby had nothing to do with arranging the mortgage. It was Phil Graham, late publisher of the Washington Post, who asked Robert C. Baker to pick up the mortgage.

After LBJ became vice president, Graham persuaded the Johnsons to give up the modest $19,000 home in which they had been living since 1942. Graham not only arranged the financing but saw to it that the deed did not include a racial covenant.

LBJ's Pool

It is quite true that Bobby Baker arranged with contractor George W. Bradshaw to build the gleaming white, peanut-shaped swimming pool in Johnson's backyard.

The then vice president used to enjoy eating snacks as he sat in his bathing suit, half-submerged, before a marble-topped, umbrella-shaded table that rose out of the heated water.

Bobby Baker also made arrangements with a former business associate, the late Al Novak, to build the Johnsons' bathroom. But both Bradshaw and Novak were paid in full by LBJ.

Bradshaw told this column that Johnson personally had signed the check paying for the swimming pool. Asked whether he had charged Johnson as much as any other customer, Bradshaw replied: "We can't afford to do things free."

This column also was able to reach Bobby Baker who confirmed that he had done the leg work in arranging for the swimming pool but nothing more.

He also gave his version of how he happened to buy the controversial $584 hi-fi set for Johnson during their Senate days. Baker explained that he had persuaded Johnson to buy a $100,000 life insurance policy through Don Reynolds, who charged $2,000 more than the agreed upon price.

Baker said he went back to Reynolds and demand a $2,000 refund. Rather than return the $2,000, Reynolds offered to buy advertising time on the LBJ radio-TV stations so he could charge off the money as a business expense.

This seemed proper, since the LBJ company had paid the premium. So Baker put Reynolds together with Walter Jenkins, another Johnson aide, who was also an officer of the LBJ company.

Instead of buying $2,000 worth of advertising time, Baker said, Reynolds ended up paying station KTBC-TV only $1,208 and buying the $584 stereo set.

Baker told this column that he had offered to obtain a stereo set after he heard Lady Bird Johnson mention she intended to buy one. So far as the Johnsons knew, the set was a gift from Baker. But he had arranged with Reynolds that it should be part of the $2,000 refund on Johnson's life insurance.

George Washington's View

History lovers are wondering if Rep. Michael Kirwan, D-Ohio, will again put a damper on the celebration of George Washington's birthday by blocking efforts to preserve the scenic view from the first president's home at Mount Vernon, Va., across the Potomac to the Maryland shore.

For the past three years the Ohioan has squelched an Interior Department plan for a national park opposite Mount Vernon. Last year the Senate voted $724,000 for land acquisition, but Kirwan killed it in the secrecy of a joint Senate-House conference, despite partial donation of the land by the Accokeek Foundation, plus scenic easements by other landowners.

Kiwan is the all-powerful chairman of an appropriations subcommittee whose influence can override the will of the rest of Congress, and he believes that the park project should be a local undertaking by Prince Georges County, Md., not a national one.

However, if Kirwan and Prince Georges real estate operators have their way, the chances are that the opposite Maryland shore will be developed residentially or even rezoned commercially. The realtors can't make a killing from a park. There is a great deal more profit in selling the land as home or apartment lots.

In any case Kirwan is expected to be in there battling against the proposed park, on the side of Maryland real estate operators and against practically everyone else, including congressional colleagues, historians, and the Washington, D. C., newspapers.

Note—One of the most consistent battlers against the Democratic congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, is the Republican congresswoman from Cleveland Heights, Ohio, Mrs. Frances Bolton. Mrs. Bolton has even contributed her own funds to preserve the view opposite Mount Vernon.

Big Powers Slow to Show Hand

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—At this time in history, when big powers would rather look like Santa Claus than Machiavelli, they show both modesty and reluctance about claiming credit for revolutions, mutinies, coups and riots.

At the same time, even if big power No. 1 didn't have a hand in an overthrow in some smaller nation, this doesn't discourage big power No. 2 from blaming No. 1 anyway.

When a military junta last November sacked the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem in South Viet Nam, this country officially disclaimed any involvement although it was irked by Diem's slow war on communism.

There wasn't much doubt, though, that the United States had made the climate for the coup possible by its call for reforms in Viet Nam. The Soviet Union promptly accused this country of engineering the coup.

A few weeks ago, when Panamanians rioted against American occupants of the Canal Zone, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said it was plain the violence was substantially promoted by agents trained in Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The Soviets said the whole thing was the result of "American colonialism" and the Panamanians accused the United States of aggression.

More recently Africans revolted against Arab rule in Zanzibar, and in Tanganyika, Uganda and Kenya native troops mutinied. Racism and lack of discipline could have been the basic motives.

But this happened as Red China's Premier Chou En-lai was traveling across Africa, trying to spread some influence, and Castro-trained agents were reported at the scene of trouble.

It's possible that Castro is getting far more credit, or blame, than he is entitled to but, with the big nations jockeying for power, the West could not help wondering what role communism had played in all this.

Then this week the junta that threw out Viet Nam's President Diem was given the heave-ho by a new Vietnamese strong man, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

After Khanh took over, the United States did what it did after the November coup: It disclaimed any involvement.

The Soviets couldn't miss an opportunity like this and they, too, did what they did after the November coup: They charged the United States was up to its neck in the coup.

Khanh had something to say about his motives, and what he said will create some brand new argument.

He indicated two reasons for seizing power: That the junta hadn't been fighting communism hard enough and he wanted to get rid of "traitors who advocate neutralism." Now a break between Saigon and Paris is expected.

(Khanh also has been described in reports from Viet Nam as a man sorely peeved at the junta for not promoting him after the November coup.)

A break between Saigon and France will hardly be bad news for the United States, which was sorely peeved at French President de Gaulle for sticking his long Gallic nose into the Vietnamese problem.

Months ago De Gaulle proposed an end to the war in Viet Nam by neutralizing Communist North Viet Nam and U.S.-

backed South Viet Nam. If it ever happened, it would be a neat way for De Gaulle to try to re-establish French influence in Viet Nam, where the French armies lost out in 1954.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Special-Type Headache Gets In Licks at Night

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.

Q — My doctor says I have histamine cephalalgia. What is that?

A—This is a special type of headache that usually occurs at night and awakens the victim. It is usually located in the region of one eye and is very severe, but usually subsides in less than an hour.

As it subsides, there may be weeping from the affected eye and profuse sweating. The attacks may occur every night for several weeks, then disappear for an indefinite period and return later.

Catergot (also prescribed for migraine headaches) or the inhalation of pure oxygen will give relief. Because the victim apparently has so much histamine in his system, desensitization to histamine has been tried with good results, but this is not an easy procedure. A drug called betahistine hydrochloride has been developed and shows great promise, but it's not yet commercially available.

Q — I have a back ailment known as fibrositis. Could a fall 10 years ago have caused this ailment? My doctor has me taking a steroid drug, prednisone, that gives me a lot of relief.

A — The fall of the Tower of Babel is said to have resulted in a confusion of tongues. The confusion has persisted down to our own times.

"Fibrositis" is a term that was originally used to label rheumatic pains that were not due to an actual involvement of the joints (arthritis).

It is a convenient term and has a pleasant ring to it, but most doctors today prefer to pinpoint the cause of the pain as an involvement of the muscles (myositis), tendons (tendinitis), or bursal sac (bursitis).

The steroid hormones, such as cortisone and prednisone, will usually give relief.

Having received relief, you should reduce the dose of this drug as quickly as possible to prevent the undesirable effects of prolonged treatment.

Exposure to cold, damp air or a sprain that occurred just before the onset is the most likely cause, and not the fall you incurred 10 years ago.

Q — I am 38. My doctor put me in the hospital for pericarditis. Another doctor says I had myocarditis. What is the difference?

A — Pericarditis is an inflammation of the pericardium—the membranous sac that surrounds the heart. It may be due to one of several infectious diseases, or it may follow a coronary heart attack, rheumatic heart disease or a variety of other causes.

Myocarditis is an inflammation of the heart muscle itself. This, too, may be due to these causes. It is not unusual for a person to have both conditions.

Dialogue from Washington

By VERA CLAY

Every school kid knows the motto engraved in bronze at the foot of the Statue of Liberty:

Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses
Yearning to breathe free;
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore
Send those, the homeless,
tempest-tossed to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

But, today, it is not the huddled masses who are trying to get into the United States. Now, it is the educated, skilled young man and woman who want to settle here where science and industry are more advanced than anywhere else in the world.

This is a great idea and we should welcome these people with open arms. But, alas, it does not work this way. We still are operating under the most archaic type of immigration laws, based on a national origins quota system.

What does this mean? Simply, it amounts to fancy discriminatory clauses which says flatly and without any justification, except discrimination, that Italians, other Southern and Central Europeans, and some Orientals, are not welcome in the United States except on a percentage basis.

Yet, with all of this, last year 314,000 aliens came to our shores with the intention of becoming permanent residents. More than half come from Germany, Italy, the United Kingdom, Canada and Mexico.

The late President Kennedy and now President Johnson, too, wish completely to abolish the antiquated national origins system. President Johnson said so only last week.

Currently, there are two immigration bills on Capitol Hill with criteria, based only on the skill of the alien applicant and whether or not he has relatives in the United States. The Judiciary Committee has held one hearing; others will follow.

But, even with Presidential endorsement, it is highly unlikely that this new immigration policy will pass immediately. The Judiciary Committee's chairman, Senator James Eastland of Mississippi, hardly will make an all-out effort to push the bill and, realistically, there are many more pressing problems for the Congress to act upon. In fact, all legislation, to a great extent, depends almost entirely on what kind of leverage the President of the United States can exert. President Johnson, while he was in Congress, wielded a tremendous amount of influence; but, he has yet to prove, that he can produce the same miracles from the other side of Pennsylvania Avenue.

As for immigrants, we always can depend on Cuban refugees who, in spite of termination of scheduled air flights from Cuba, continue to make it to Florida via small boat and American Red Cross ships and planes. Currently, there are 154,703 political refugees from Cuba in the United States . . . and they clamor to get here every day.

Ask Committee For Reduction Of Voting Age

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The voting age in Missouri should be lowered to 18 because young people reach maturity faster than when 21 was established as the minimum age, a state legislative committee was told Thursday.

H. E. Carroll, international representative of the United Auto Workers Union, said many young people have been graduated from high school, marry have families and are capable of making sound judgments at 18.

"The time has come to take a realistic viewpoint on when a man or woman reaches maturity," Carroll told the committee.

The possibility of lowering to 18 the age at which young people could enter into contracts such as obtaining a mortgage on a home was mentioned by members of the joint legislative committee on elections.

Carroll also asked the committee to consider a measure to make it more difficult for persons to cross party lines in primary elections. He proposed that a voter give six months' notice of intent to change registration.

"Land of the free and the home of the brave" that poverty in all its ugly forms is everywhere in our midst.

If every individual in every community will review the President's suggested program and begin at home to fight poverty, the program will eventually raise the level of life for the poor.

Most people don't want hand outs, they want opportunity, self-respect and a better life for themselves and their children. Let us pitch in and help!

Early Sweep

Soviets Dominate Winter Olympics

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—It is crystal clear today that Russia is on the way to dominating the ninth Winter Olympics even more decisively than it did the last time around.

The Soviets scored a clean sweep of the first three places in the ladies' 500 meter speed skating. Last time Russia got only second place.

Russia has the gold medal for figure skating pairs. Last time sixth place was the best the Russians did.

Russia took third in the men's 30 kilometer cross country ski race, just as it did in 1960, and failed to do anything in the men's downhill, just as it did before.

All this adds up to two gold medals, one silver, and two bronze for the Russians in two days of competition—compared to one silver and one bronze at the same stage in 1960.

Newly crowned Olympic champions are Egon Zimmerman, Austria, men's downhill, 2:18.16, a course record (there are no Olympic or world records in ski races because each course varies); Lidia Skoblikova, Russia, women's 500 meter speed skating, 45.0, an Olympic record; and Eero Maetyranta, Finland, men's 30 kilometer cross country skiing, 1:30:50.7, fastest time ever in international competition. Oleg Protopopov and Ludmila Belousova won the pairs figure skating for Russia on opening day.

Thursday's day of glory for Russia was one of bitter disappointment for the United States.

The United States had high hopes for its downhill skiers, but Ni Orsi's 14th place was the best the Americans did. The 19-year-old lad from Stockton, Calif., skidded off the ideal line at the first left turn, swung too wide, and was thrown out of line to the next gate.

Jeanne Ashworth of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Janice Smith, of Rochester, N.Y., who had looked strong in pre-Olympic tests, managed to tie for fourth place in the women's 500 meter speed skating at 46.2, although they hoped for better.

Two more medals were at stake today, in the ladies 1,500 meter speed skating and in the special Nordic ski jumping on a 70-meter hill.

Fouls Help Valley Win Cage Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two fouls in the last seven seconds helped Missouri Valley to a 79-75 victory over National of Kansas City Thursday in one of four basketball games involving Missouri and Kansas teams and non-conference opponents.

Another Kansas City school, Rockhurst took a 77-73 beating at Omaha; Springfield State was beaten 85-65 at Emporia State and Washington of St. Louis downed Wayne State 83-71 in Detroit.

This is how the last seven seconds went at Marshall in the Missouri Valley-National game.

A field goal that would have made the score 77-76 for National was disallowed for charging. National's coach, Wayne Davidson walked onto the court, so Missouri Valley was given two free throws. Don Duncan converted one of them and Don Walter scored a field goal just ahead of the buzzer.

Harry Bohn with 26 points and John Fintrock with 24 were Valley's high scorers. Bob Allemeier and Rich Hemphill scored 20 each for National.

Pat Caldwell led the Rockhurst scoring at Omaha with 31 points. The game ended the two schools. Rockhurst had won by 15 points on its home court.

The game at Emporia was tied at 39-39 with 16 minutes left when Emporia State went ahead for good. Travis Wallace led Emporia with 24 points; and Charles Marshall, Holmes Teegarden and Jim Gant shared Springfield's scoring lead with 12 each.

Washington's victory broke Wayne State's four game winning string. Ed Dancy topped Washington scoring with 20 points.

Two Missouri games are on tonight's schedule. Tarkio is at Central Methodist and Maryville is at Cape Girardeau. Grace-land of the MCAU is host to St. Ambrose.

In Kansas, Southwestern is at Bethany and Quincy, Ill. at St. Benedict's.

Saturday Decisive In Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG Associated Press Sports Writer

It's seldom that one of the two Kansas schools doesn't figure in the Big Eight basketball championship. The Kansas-Kansas State game at Manhattan Saturday will decide which one stays in the race this year.

K-State, the champion of the pre-season tournament, evened its record at 2-2 by clipping Oklahoma at Norman Monday. Kansas is 3-2 with consecutive victories over Colorado, Nebraska and Iowa State after opening losses to Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

Saturday night's loser will be in position of having to win all the rest of its league games to have a chance to tie for the title.

Kansas has won or shared 18 championships since the league's first basketball season in 1929. K-State nine and the rest of the league combined has won or shared 18. K-State under Tex Winter has dominated by winning or sharing six crowns in the past eight years.

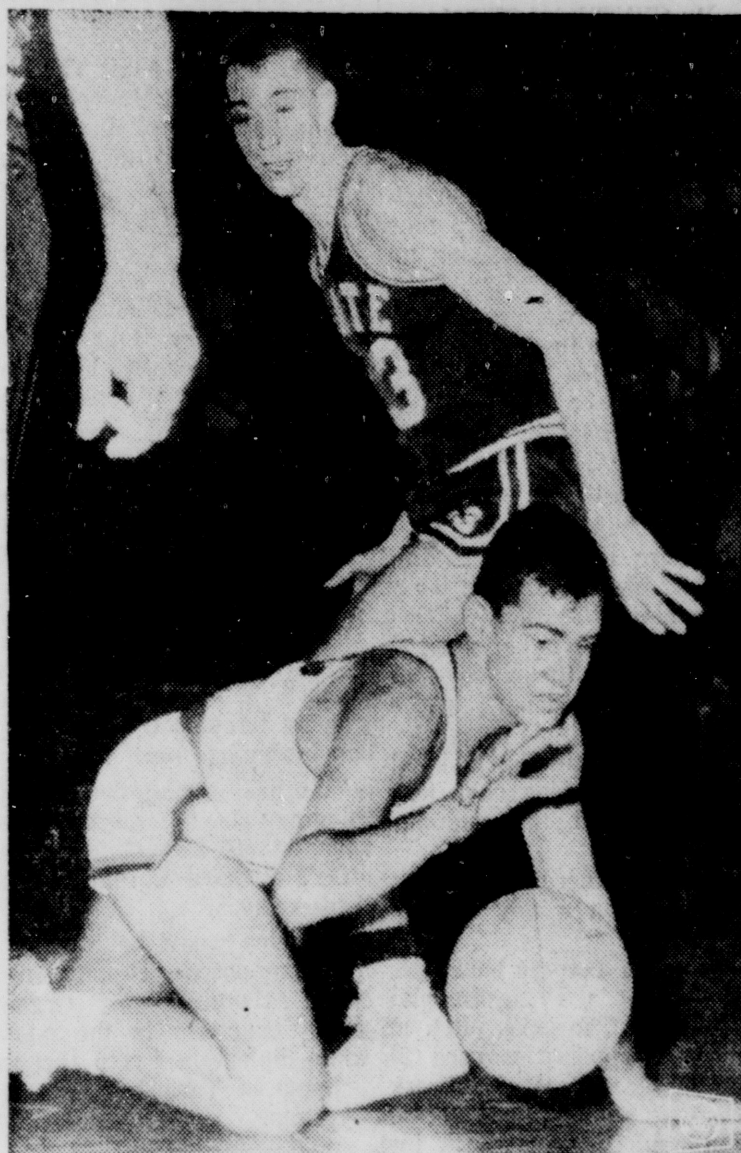

Oklahoma State, out in front at 3-0, should stay there by beating Iowa State, 1-3, at Stillwater. Colorado takes a 2-1 record against Oklahoma, 1-4, at Norman. Missouri, 1-2, hopes to start a comeback by beating Nebraska, 2-1 at Columbia.

Kansas is hoping for a big game from veteran Al Correll, who is playing his final game for the Jayhawks Saturday. His eligibility runs out. Correll opened his career in mid-season of 1960 against K-State.

Correll leads the Jayhawks in both field accuracy with .487 and in foul shooting with .896. Both marks are better than the school records but Coach Dick Harp said his defensive ability will be the biggest loss to the team.

SPORTS

LITTLE DRIBBLE—There are dribbles and dribbles in basketball, but, except for the Harlem Globetrotters, there probably never was another like this. Charlie Spooner of Georgia Tech lost his balance as he tried to control a rebound and this was the result. Mississippi State's Donnie Kessinger seems surprised at the antic in Atlanta.

In Coming Season

Sees Better Tiger Team With Improvement in Club

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I firmly believe the Tigers will have the most improved team in the American League in 1964. We've done more with our club than anyone else.

Through winter trades we have strengthened three departments—infield, outfield and pitching. We're quite pleased with the trade that brought Jerry Lumpe to play second base for us.

Lumpe, whom we got from Kansas City in the Rocky Colavito deal, should stabilize our infield. He's as good a second baseman as there is in baseball today, and he ought to increase our double play output. We were weak there last season with only 124, ninth in the league.

Don Demeter, whom we acquired from Philadelphia in the Jim Bunning trade, should help our outfield as much as Lumpe does the infield. Demeter adds speed and defense without any sacrifice in hitting. I'm looking forward to seeing Demeter, Al Kaline and Bill Bruton perform in the same outfield. It could be the best in the league.

Everybody knows how great Kaline is and what he can do at the plate. Bruton is dangerous when he's rested a little, as we plan to do. Demeter should hit for a higher average than Colavito and last year he hit as many home runs as Colavito. Demeter will be in center field and Bruton in left.

Behind the three regulars we have George Thomas and Jake Wood, whom we are converting from a second baseman into an outfielder. I also like the chances of Willie Horton, as impressive as any rookie hitter I've seen in a long time.

I like my infield now. Dick McAuliffe at shortstop is my kind of ball player. He's a hard-nosed player, a good hitter and is improving as a fielder all the time. Norm Cash at first base came along real fast after a slow start last year. I look for him to continue that late season pace. At third, I'm going to give Don Wert a real shot to make it. Bubba Phillips will back him up.

I look for our catching to be improved. Bill Freehan is going to be our No. 1 catcher and he'll be a good one. We traded Gus Triandos because we have confidence in Freehan. He could develop into one of the outstanding players in the league.

I'm happy with my pitching. Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham, whom we got from Kansas City, are bound to help. Rakow, I think, can be a big winner. Wickersham might be a terrific relief pitcher. Yo-Jack Hamilton, who came with Demeter, has a good arm.

I'm planning on Hank Aquirre, Phil Regan, Frank Lary, Mickey Lolich and Rakow in the starting rotation with Don Mossi and Wickersham doubling between spot starts and relief.

S-C Tigers Defeat Butler In Tourney

The Smith-Cotton Tigers boosted their season record to eight wins and six losses Thursday night as they defeated the Butler Bears, 74-47, in first round play of the Clinton Invitational Tourney.

The Tigers took an early lead in the contest. At the half, they held an 11-point advantage over the Bears. In the second half of play Smith-Cotton continued their scoring trend, as Butler trailed.

Barry Wallace and Jim Chapman sparked the Tigers' scoring with 18 and 17 points respectively. Wallace's scores came on nine field goals. Chapman made his tallies on six field goals and five charity tosses. Larry Boyd led the scoring for the Bears with 16 points on seven goals and two free throws.

The Tigers will meet Lexington in the second round of play tonight at 7:15 p.m.

Price Going Up
On Burley Tobacco

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The price average has gone up on Kentucky's burley tobacco markets as volume continues light. A total of 1,755,976 pounds was sold on nine markets Thursday for $985,783, an average of $56.14 a hundred. This compared with Wednesday's season low of $54.98. On the eight-state burley belt, changes from Wednesday went to only $1 in most cases, the Federal-State Market News Service said. Volume continued light and quality of offerings was about the same. About 49 per cent of Wednesday's gross sales was placed under government loan.

Engineer Who Worked Way Up
Will Head Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—A mechanical engineer who worked up through production channels will become the new boss of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's No. 2 steelmaker.

He is Edmund F. Martin, 6-foot-1 balding former president of the Bethlehem board since last August. He had been named president in 1960.

Martin will become chief executive and board chairman when Arthur B. Homer retires on his 68th birthday, April 14. Martin will be the fourth man to head Bethlehem.

The appointment was made by directors Thursday after Bethlehem reported a 15 per cent gain in earnings for 1963. Profits rose to $102,462,212 or $2.11 a share from $88,677,761 or $1.80 a share. The results in 1962, a dismal year for the entire industry, were Bethlehem's poorest in 15 years.

Martin was born in 1904, the year Charles M. Schwab gave up the helm of U.S. Steel Corp. to organize Bethlehem. The company became "Big Steel's" leading rival.

Martin joined Bethlehem 19 years later—his first day out of college. He's been with the company ever since.

Sport Goods Dealer
Faces Federal Charge

ST. LOUIS (AP)—John W. (Pete) Summers, 41-year-old Cape Girardeau, Mo., sporting goods dealer, is under indictment by a Federal Grand Jury for receiving 40,000 rounds of stolen U.S. Army ammunition.

The jury returned the indictment Thursday in the court of Judge John K. Reagan. The government says Summers conducted a mail order business with ammunition stolen at Fort Campbell, Ky., by five other men, four soldiers and an ex-soldier. The other men were not identified.

Summers is free on $10,000 bond. Maximum penalty on the charge is a $10,000 fine and 10 years in jail.

Car-Truck Collision
Fatal to One Woman

NEW HAVEN, Mo. (AP)—A car-truck crash on Missouri Highway 100 near New Haven, Mo., 60 miles west of St. Louis, killed a woman and seriously injured a man Thursday night.

Killed was Mrs. Della Pilger, 56, of Berger, Mo. The highway patrol said Mrs. Pilger's car skidded on wet pavement, crossed the center line of the highway and hit a panel truck driven by Clarence Schwenker, 55, of Washington, Mo. He is reported in serious condition at a Washington hospital with a broken hip and other injuries.

Church Conference
Adopts Rights Stand

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas-Missouri Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church adopted this resolution Thursday:

"We insist on full citizenship rights; equal opportunity in the four major areas of our concern: job opportunities and upgrading health, education and welfare; open occupancy and public accommodations."

The winter council of the conference also was told the conference raised a budget of $8,983 for Missouri and $8,736 for Kansas.

WASHINGTON (AP)—"I readily admit that my own course in life has been influenced by none so much as this great man," said President Johnson.

He was speaking of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who would have been 82 years old Thursday.

Johnson spoke Thursday at an anniversary ceremony attended by 32 White House aides of Roosevelt.

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King, American Negro integrationist leader, has been recommended for the Nobel Peace Prize by eight members of the Swedish Parliament.

In a note to the special peace prize committee of the Norwegian Parliament, the members said Dr. King has convinced his followers to accept the principle of nonviolence.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Elvis Presley has purchased the Potomac, luxury yacht once owned by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Col. Tim Parker, the singer's manager, submitted the bid of $55,000 for the 165-foot boat at an auction in Long Beach, Calif. Parker said Presley would give the yacht to the march of dimes.

MU Professor
Gordon Nance
Shoots Himself

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Gordon B. Nance, who helped develop southeast Missouri cotton into the state's biggest cash crop, shot himself to death at his home Thursday.

Dr. Richard Johnson, Boone County coroner, ruled the death a suicide and said there will be no inquest.

Nance was a professor emeritus at the University of Missouri. He would have been 71 on March 2.

His body was found on the floor of the garage in his home by his wife. A .38 caliber pistol was near the body. No note was found.

Prof. Nance came to the university in 1930 and had been there except for a brief assignment as farm agent in New Madrid County.

He worked with Prof. W. C. Etheridge and Prof. Charles A. Helm to develop strains of cotton particularly adapted to soil and climate conditions in southeast Missouri. After he persuaded producers and processors to adopt these strains cotton grown in the area began attracting premium prices because of the uniformity of its staple length.

Prof. Nance has been specializing in market research at the university on a part-time basis since a heart attack in 1956.

Confesses Slaying
Done 24 Years Ago

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP)—Samuel Edwin Collins will appear for preliminary hearing Feb. 17 in connection with a killing-for-hire he says he committed 24 years ago.

Collins surrendered earlier this month in Las Vegas, Nev., saying he killed Bob Wilcox, a 74-year-old farmer, near Pleasant Hope, Mo., and that his conscience bothered him.

He said he was paid $1,000 for the slaying by a man who has since died.

Collins, a 54-year-old laborer, was arraigned Thursday and the hearing date was set.

Living Costs Climb When Not Expected

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of living isn't following the rules this winter. It has risen to a new high at a time when it wasn't supposed to, on the basis of past average behavior.

And rising prices in some basic materials pose a further worry along the same line. A chance of any drop in the index is even more unlikely than usual.

Consumers haven't been happy about any of this. And now the statisticians are a bit perturbed, although putting most of the blame on the weather. They still hold to the belief that the rise in the cost of living will continue to be gradual rather than picking up much steam and causing a marked flurry of inflation.

In some lines, workers have been helped in meeting higher living costs by a rise in their take-home pay. And Congress is talking about increasing the take-home pay for countless others by passing a federal tax cut bill by the end of next month.

What pushed the cost of living to a new high in December of 107.6 per cent of the 1957-59 base period was largely the damage to winter crops by unusual freezes in the South, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. But also rising from the November figures were housing, personal care and reading and recreation.

Only twice before in the last 10 years had the December index topped the November figure. And the January index is expected to stay around the record high.

Biggest increases last year came in June, July, November and December. The year-end figure of 107.6 compared with 105.9 in December 1962. The component of the index had risen during the year, with services showing the biggest gains.

Consumers are used to food prices varying with the seasons and with the violence or benevolence of the weather. They also have become used to services rising steadily in recent years.

What's worrying them now is whether prices of basic goods will start rising again after a period of near stability. Most such goods are in adequate supply, and most producers have plenty of capacity—some of it idle—to turn out more goods if demand requires. All this helps hold prices down on a competitive basis.

But if economic growth takes off at the rate some predict, the excess capacity can disappear. Demand then could rise faster than supply. It has happened before in periods of increasing prosperity.

Right now many people are helped by higher incomes. These come from longer work weeks and higher hourly earnings, from increased interest paid on savings, from larger dividend payments, from higher wage scales.

But for most folk the long battle between the pay check and the cost of living hasn't been licked yet.

picker of the human race, the emperor of the pigeon hole.

He believes everything has its proper place, and if he can't find any other place for it he puts it in the waste basket.

Neatness often is praised as a virtue whereas, in fact, it more often is a vice—if not a downright sin.

There are basically only two types of people—the hoarders and the discards.

The hoarders are the clutter-bugs of this world. They are normal.

They never throw anything away. Anything that happens to them is worth saving—be it a tooth broken in kindergarten, a love letter received in college, or a pair of combat boots worn in war.

The hoarder is afraid to throw anything away because he never knows when it might turn out to be useful. His voyage through existence becomes happily baggage-ridden, and wherever he takes a fresh step he creates a new debris.

The orderly person, on the other hand, is a fellow who turns something into nothing. He is like a man trying to bail himself out of a sinking lifeboat. He is so busy throwing things away that when he finally departs it is as if he had never been there.

In my opinion the compulsively neat person is the victim of an inhuman malady. This has to be here, that has to be there—and before he goes to sleep at night he has to write little memos to himself about how he will organize tomorrow. It is as if he were deathly afraid of life's natural spontaneity.

He lives in a world held together by paper clips. His desk at the office always looks as if it had just been born, his home wears the antiseptic air of a surgeon's arena. He doesn't inhabit life—he just goes through it.

The neat person is never satisfied with his own neatness; he must inflict it on others. He is abnormal; he is a fanatic.

One of the great beauties of life is its disorder, and chaos is an inescapable part of living. This world is more than a vast laundry. It is a great and continuing salvage operation, and anything that happens to one is worth holding on to.

My motto is: "Don't throw it away. Whatever it is, keep it. You may want to admire it later."

Editor's Note: Once a year, Boyle's long-suffering boss tells him to please make the top of his desk look less like a city dump. And this is the response he gets.

Pictorial Visit To Mansion Is Published

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Jefferson City, has been published by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Gov. John M. Dalton today displayed copies of the 22-page booklet of color photographs and brief history of the Mansion. Copies will be presented to schools, instructors, historical societies, Missouri government leaders and almost anyone else who asks for one.

Mrs. Dalton helped with the history of the mansion, completed in 1871 at a cost of $43,000. Dick Howe of St. Louis designed the booklet and James Swetnam of Kansas City took the color photographs. The first printing of the publication was for 25,000 copies. The only reference to the telephone company is a small two-line credit on the back cover.

Double Pay Is Discussed

LBJ Seeks New Weapon To Fight Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked Congress to permit the government to require double pay for overtime in selected industries as a weapon to combat unemployment.

His idea is that higher overtime pay might encourage employers to hire more workers rather than assign their present force to work overtime. Under the current time-and-a-half floor, employers often find it cheaper to pay overtime than to pay the fringe benefits involved in adding workmen.

A letter to Johnson by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz made public Thursday by the White House said, "Over 15 million people regularly work more than 40 hours a week at the same time four million workers are jobless."

Directional Change For Ranger 6

Space Scientists Optimistic Craft Will Reach Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A camera-laden Ranger 6 spacecraft sped toward the moon Thursday and space scientists said a crucial midcourse direction change of only 600 miles would have to be made to put it on target.

A radio signal was to be beamed to the spacecraft about 3 a.m. Eastern Standard Time. If successful, it would ignite the Ranger's small steering engine long enough to swerve the space voyager onto the desired collision course with the moon.

Optimism was voiced by space scientists, who pointed out the Ranger was capable of a midcourse trajectory correction of up to 10,000 miles.

The remaining point was preset at 16 hours after launch, when the spacecraft would be approximately 75,000 miles from earth.

In announcing the Ranger's slightly faulty trajectory, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said: "This miss distance is well within the correction capability of Ranger's midcourse maneuver rocket engine. The current trajectory of the spacecraft is ahead and slightly below the moon."

Should the correction attempt fail, it is possible the spacecraft could be tilted as it passes the moon so its cameras could take pictures of the lunar surface from the 600-mile distance.

The Ranger's sole mission is to snap closeup photos of the lunar surface where an American astronaut may land five years from now.

Equipment aboard the moon vehicle is capable of showing objects on the moon surface as small as a card table.

"We are aiming at the lighted part of the moon," said H.M. Schurmeier, Ranger project officer. "I'm sure we will reach the moon."

McKinley Day Dinner Is Planned

Plans for the McKinley Day Dinner, at which William C. Phelps, Kansas City, will be the speaker, are nearing completion according to Ed Kehde, chairman of the Republican city committee. Phelps is prominent in Missouri Republican politics and is a member of the state legislature representing a district of the Kansas City area and is serving his second term.

The toastmaster for the evening will be David Eisenstein and Edwin Danforth will provide the dinner music.

The dinner will be held at 6:15 p.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Earl Lugen and Mrs. Ida Harriman are co-chairmen for the table decorations; Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Stonner and Mr. and Mrs. William Hurt are co-chairman as hosts and hostesses; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Rook are the door reception committee; Mrs. J. W. Gerdt is chairman of the calling committee with Mrs. Carl J. Meyer, Mrs. Sadie Bohon, Mrs. Oscar Keck, Mrs. Porter Duffet, Mrs. Oscar Lawson and Lawrence Kerr assisting.

The dinner is a covered dish affair with the table service and coffee being furnished by the committee. Fried chicken has been suggested as the meat dish.

Two Drafts Of Proposals Are Ready

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton said Thursday the drafts of two proposed constitutional amendments probably will be made public next week to launch an initiative petition campaign to get them on the ballot next fall.

One would bar a public official from using his office for private gain.

The other would allow a governor to succeed himself and serve a second four-year term.

The governor recommended both proposals to the 1963 legislature but both failed. Dalton said the final drafts have been completed but still must be approved by some interested people in Kansas City and St. Louis who are expected to help in the initiative campaign.

To get on the ballot an initiative proposal must be recommended by two-thirds of the people who voted for governor in seven of the 10 congressional districts.

"It's going to be a difficult thing," the governor told newsmen. "It's always difficult to pass a constitutional amendment."

The governor said he decided to try the initiative method because apparently it would be impossible to push the proposals through the legislature. He noted the lawmakers are reluctant to give the governor two terms and thereby broaden his power.

"I'm hoping the executive branch will be a little more popular than the legislative branch" in the initiative campaign, he said.

Dalton said several organizations have offered to help get the necessary signatures but there is no big money in sight to finance the petition job.

New Dictator Strengthens His Hold Over S. Viet Nam

To Punish Reds And Neutralists

Soldiers And Tanks Quietly Support Khanh's Power Bid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh has emerged from a bloodless coup as the strong man and virtual dictator of South Viet Nam. He vowed to smash both the Communists and "the traitors who advocate neutralism."

Troops and tanks based in the Saigon area—some diverted from a planned offensive against a Communist guerrilla stronghold — quietly backed Khanh's successful bid for power Thursday.

Khanh dissolved the 3-month-old regime of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, jailed several fellow generals as conspiracy suspects and took over governmental reins of this former French colony, which has known little but battle and political intrigue since the end of World War II.

A 37-year-old army corps commander who has a reputation as a cool and skillful planner, Khanh made plain the new Asian policy of French President Charles de Gaulle was among targets of the coup.

A diplomatic break between Saigon and Paris is expected. De Gaulle, who last Monday extended diplomatic recognition to Red China, has advocated neutralization of both Communist North Viet Nam and the U.S.-backed Republic of South Viet Nam.

Minh was not arrested. There seemed to be a possibility that the former junta chief, popular among both Vietnamese and American military men, would be kept on as technical chief of state.

The premier of the provisional civilian government, Nguyen Ngoc Tho, was turned out of office along with his Cabinet and returned to civilian life.

Joint Meet Is Called In Dispute

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States have called an extraordinary meeting of the main parties in the Cyprus dispute for Friday to present their joint plans for rushing a NATO army to the eastern Mediterranean island.

Government informants said the British and the Americans will seek the approval of Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios for the dispatch of the peace force to Cyprus.

An announcement said the Turkish, Greek and Cypriot foreign ministers, with delegates of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities, will meet with British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys and U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce at Marlborough House.

The call came amid indications that President Makarios, a Greek Cypriot, intends to veto the British-American plan for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization peace-keeping force unless it is made answerable to the United Nations.

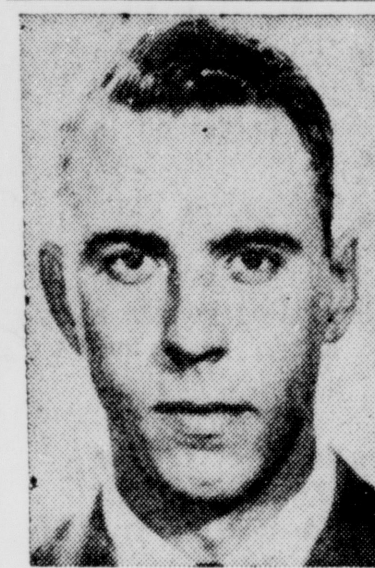

The agreement of President Johnson's administration to play a role in dousing the east Mediterranean flashpoint was conveyed to the British by Ambassador Bruce.

To Foil Defenses

Warheads Receive Better Methods

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official report indicates that improved means of foiling antimissile defenses, such as the Soviet Union may have, are being put into the nuclear warheads of long-range U.S. rockets.

This cryptic reference was contained in the annual report Thursday of the Atomic Energy Commission. It told also of "substantial increases" in the destructive power of warheads for the Polaris submarine-launched missile and the long-range Minuteman and Titan rockets.

This year's report contained far more information on nuclear arms than any previous summary.

The reported progress in yield to weight ratios means that a missile can carry a bigger, more powerful warhead over the same range without an over-all increase in the launching weight of the missile.

Thus, a Polaris or Minuteman missile which up to now has carried a warhead of slightly less than one megaton power may have been increased by a factor of two or more. The big Titan missile probably has moved up toward the 10 or more megatons of bomber-carried weapons.

A megaton is the equivalent of the energy released by one million tons of conventional explosive.

In official statements, the Defense Department has been referring for the past few years to improved penetration capability for ballistic missiles to get through defenses by the use of decoys and electronic equipment.

The AEC report seemed to suggest further that progress is being made toward protecting the nuclear charge in a warhead against the neutralization effect created by an antimissile bursting in the area.

To Visit Washington

LONDON (AP)—Harold Wilson, leader of the Labor party, will visit Washington early in March to meet President Johnson, his office announced Thursday.

The announcement said he will talk with Johnson on world problems. Wilson would become Britain's next prime minister if his party wins the national election which must be held before Nov. 5. Opinion polls give him a strong change of winning.

At Annual Meeting

Pharris Re-Named Head Of Salvation Army Board

L. A. Pharris was re-elected chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory board at the annual dinner meeting of the organization in Bothwell Hotel Wednesday night, attended by members and their invited guests.

Joseph R. Allen was chosen vice - president; Mrs. Vivian Warren, secretary; and Henry C. Salveter, treasurer. Jess Brown and Clinton Black were elected to a term of three years, and Richard E. Witig for a term of one year on the advisory board.

Mrs. Bertha Welch reported for the nominating committee composed of the following: Abe Silverman, chairman; Marjorie Garansson, Del Heckart, A. H. Wilks and Mrs. Welch.

Scripture reading was given by Captain Marjorie A. Weber and invocation was by Major Vernon Vie. L. A. Pharris presided.

The guest speaker was Major

Captain Weber reviewed details of the annual financial report which showed income of $18,760.59 and expenses of $18,501.44. She also acknowledged the assistance which various Sedalia organizations and individuals had given in support of the local Army activities especially during the Christmas season in manning the kettles all

List of Election Offices In Error

A list of city offices to be voted upon this spring was not complete as published in the Democrat-Capital Wednesday. Offices to be on the ballot include four City Council members, a City Attorney, City Collector, Police Magistrate, City Assessor and City Treasurer.

The article was also in error in listing the City Clerk as up for election. The City Clerk position, presently held by Ralph Dedrick, is an appointive post.

To Attempt To Clarify New Policy

PARIS (AP)—Government officials said President Charles de Gaulle will try to clarify French policy toward Communist and Nationalist China in a semiannual press statement Friday.

French officials suddenly became silent on controversial aspects of the question, pending De Gaulle's statement.

France officially recognized Red China early this week. Wednesday, the semi-official news agency, Agence France Presse, quoted well-informed French circles as saying De Gaulle had repudiated the idea of two Chinas. This appeared to have been a device by which the De Gaulle government made known it was bowing to Peking's demands that France veer away from the two-Chinas concept.

Authorized sources, apparently heeding Peking's bitter criticism of the concept, said there could not be equal representation of two governments of the same nation and consequently the two-Chinas theory made no sense in international law.

France continued to maintain diplomatic relations with the Nationalist China regime based on Formosa, which claims to speak for China. Officials said France had recognized Peking as the government of China. Both Peking and Taipei say Formosa is part of China, but apparently France does not agree.

From the French viewpoint, the controversy seemed to center on how the word "China" was to be defined. This sort of wrangling over words is dear to the French diplomatic heart. In the French language it has an oddly appropriate name: Chinoiserie—roughly, Chineseries, a devious Oriental way of doing things, or red tape.

Request Is Rejected

TOPEKA (AP)—The Kansas Supreme Court Thursday rejected a request by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for a rehearing in a multi-million dollar rate case.

William L. Mitchell, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission, said this clears the way for a refund of perhaps $20 million to the company's Kansas customers.

Annual Farm Bureau Banquet Held

Farm Bureau made the presentation Wednesday night at the annual Farm Bureau Banquet held at the Masonic Temple. Green stated the award was in appreciation for the cooperation and help given to the farmers by Ritzenthaler. (Democrat-Capital photo)

The Farm Bureau annual banquet was held Wednesday night at the Masonic Temple with Vic Gray, California, new public relations man for the Missouri Farm Bureau, as the principal speaker. At this banquet, too, a special award, "Friend of the Farmer" was awarded for the first time to W. H. Ritzenthaler, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, for his cooperation with the Farm Bureau and other farm organizations. The presentation was made by Matt Green, president of the Farm Bureau.

Gray, in his talk, pointed out that this is the 50th anniversary of the Missouri Farm Bureau, and that it had contributed tremendously to the agriculture of this nation. One of his first great things was the bringing of the extension service from the University of Missouri which has brought the state to the high place it is in agriculture. Another thing is the REA which brought electricity to the farmers and to which the Farm Bureau contributed.

"Today the Farm Bureau is working for action in government. The key of the outstanding production today," Gray said, "is national education." (Please turn to page 4, col. 3)

Homework: Eternal Task

High school students, scribbling out an English composition assignment, might take some comfort in the knowledge that much the same thing was required of young people way, way back in the dim dawn of recorded history.

Four thousand years ago, a Sumerian student's copybook was a hunk of soft clay on which he punched cuneiform characters with a wedge-tipped stick. The clay was then baked or allowed to harden in the sun, much to the delight of modern archeologists and historians.

Thousands of such tablets have been unearthed in the Middle East and lie in the basements of museums around the world, waiting until specialists have a chance to classify and translate them.

Mining and musing in some of these lodes of baked human thought, Samuel Noah Kramer of the University of Pennsylvania has come up with a number of essays whose production once furrowed the brows of students and teachers alike in a time so long ago that it was completely forgotten by the world until the breaking of the cuneiform code.

One essay, written by a boy who obviously knew his audience, lavishly flatters the teacher who taught him such practical matters as applied mathematics and how to get on in the world.

Another student describes some of the activities in the Sumerian school system and then complains that the six days' vacation he has a month are all too brief. As he explains:

"Here is my monthly school schedule: I have three days recess in the month, I (also) have three (holy) feast days in the month, (so that) 24 days (each) month I have to stay in school —(and) long days they are."

Lastly, one essay begins exuberantly: "Fellows, today we don't do any work."

Old Panama Canal Skeleton Rattles

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The most amazing chapter in the sensational story of the Panama Canal was disclosed as a result of a libel suit brought by President Theodore Roosevelt against the old New York World and Indianapolis News.

Like many who are foolish enough to bring libel suits, T.R. lost. The suit was thrown out by the Supreme Court. But in defending its case, the World accumulated significant testimony of great interest to the American public at this time when our entire relations with Panama are in jeopardy.

The testimony showed:

1. That William N. Cromwell, founder of the law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, of which the late John Foster Dulles was a famous partner, was hired by the French to sell the Panama Canal route to the U. S. Senate, rather than the Nicaraguan Canal route, which the U.S. government favored.

2. That a pool of Wall Street bankers secretly bought up stock in the French Panama Canal Company when it was low, then helped inspire a revolution in Panama to take over from Columbia, which would increase the price of their stock.

3. That Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of Teddy Roosevelt, was a member of this pool to the extent of $200,000, which put Teddy Roosevelt, the man who with Cromwell engineered the Panamanian revolution, in a conflict-of-interest position.

4. That Henry W. Taft, brother of William Howard Taft, who was Secretary of War under T.R. and in charge of the Panama Canal operation, also was a secret member of the Wall Street pool to the extent of $100,000. This put Secretary Taft also in a conflict of interest position.

5. That Panama was paid very little of the original $10,000,000 supposed to have been given her for deeding the Canal Zone to the United States in perpetuity.

Indefatigable Digger

Many of these revelations are told by Earl Harding, former correspondent for the New York World, in his book, "The Untold Story of Panama." Mr. Harding was given the task of digging up evidence to defend the libel suit and it was largely through his diligence that some of the carefully concealed facts were uncovered.

The story goes back to 1896 when the French were bogged down in their attempt to dig a canal across Panama and wanted to sell out to the United States. However, American sentiment was overwhelmingly for a sea level canal through Nicaragua, rather than cutting through the mountain chain of Panama.

So the French retained New York attorney William Nelson Cromwell, whose law firm has dominated American foreign policy ever since. Its most recent dominators have been John F. Dulles, who served as Secretary of State, and his brother Allen, who long served as head of Central Intelligence.

Cromwell accomplished the phenomenal feat of getting $40,000,000 allocated to the French for their old canal bonds — though a good slice of it went to the Wall Street bankers. For this Cromwell submitted a bill for $832,450 — which he never actually collected. The French shaved him down to $228,000.

But the founder of the Sullivan and Cromwell firm really earned his fee. Despite the fact that all U. S. government agencies were in favor of a Nicaraguan Canal—which would not have entailed $40,000,000 to the French and Wall Street — Cromwell set up an anti-Nicaragua press bureau in Washington, then adopted delaying tactics by persuading the McKinley administration to set up a new commission to examine Panama and other routes.

Amazing Maneuvers

Then he devoted all his time to influencing this new commission away from Nicaragua and toward Panama and the French route. Despite Nelson's efforts, the commission once again recommended the cheaper and easier route through Nicaragua.

But by this time the indefatigable Cromwell had persuaded the Republican party to change its platform from recommending a Nicaraguan Canal to an "Isthmian Canal," also got J. P. Morgan, Kuhn Loeb, August Belmont, J. and W. Seligman and other Wall Street bankers to organize "The Panama Canal Company of America," to buy up French Canal stock cheap. All were big contributors to the Republican party.

One of those investing in the company was Douglas Robinson, T.R.'s brother-in-law. And when the Canal Commission again recommended in favor of Nicaragua, Teddy Roosevelt called the commissioners in, asked them to reconsider. Thanks to presidential persuasion, the commission finally recommended unanimously for the route favored by T.R. and his brother-in-law.

Despite this, the House of Representatives passed the Nicaraguan Canal bill by the lopsided vote of 309 to 2.

Cromwell then went to work in the Senate where he persuaded the famed Sen. Mark Hanna of Ohio, mentor of McKinley, to block the House Nicaraguan Bill, drafted questions for Hanna to ask in committee hearings, wrote speeches for the Panama route and finally, through the powerful influence of Hanna, got the House 309-to-2 vote reversed in the secrecy of the Senate-House conference.

Thanks to an astute lawyer hired by the French, the entire canal policy of the United States was reversed. This meant $40,000,000 paid for the old French bonds in which Douglas Robinson, Henry W. Taft and other big contributors to the GOP had invested.

Thus was history made in the vital area now under dispute in Central America. More on this unique chapter of our history later.

Aspirin Helps Hens

The pressures of modern living seem to be getting heavy for more and more of us.

With seemingly no way out, it now appears that even chickens seem to be caught up in our pressurized living.

At least, this is what you might conclude in light of the results of two researchers at the University of Arizona. They find that by giving chickens aspirin, they'll lay more eggs.

In two tests involving 180 white leghorns, the scientists added acetyl salicylic acid (better known to ordinary folks as aspirin) to a poultry ration. Results: Six per cent more eggs.

Why?

"We don't know," say the researchers frankly.

The hens must be wondering, too.

Two Questions Plague the Nation

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — From its beginning this country has been uneasy about two questions which never go away although the nation has acted as if it wished they would.

What happens when a president is disabled or when a president dies and there is no vice president?

Eight times—when presidents died in office and were succeeded by their vice presidents—the country has been left without a vice president, as it is now. Luckily, none of the vice presidents who became president died.

It's stretching luck to think this can go on indefinitely.

The assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the succession of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to the presidency, leaving the No. 2 spot vacant, once again has forced a national re-examination of the problem.

Now, as in the past, ideas have been offered by the bundle. Three times Congress acted to say who becomes president if the president dies and there is no vice president. Always it had second thoughts, as it is having now.

But it always ducked the task of answering the disability question: Who decides when a sorely stricken president can't carry out his duties? Who decides when he thinks he is no longer disabled?

Now a Senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments—is tackling both questions: Succession and disability. It held hearings the past two days, will resume in late February.

There will be enormous disagreements, as always. The subcommittee has been drenched in proposals. And, when it's all through, no matter what it recommends, the full Congress may duck again.

The framers of the Constitution didn't try to be positive, either.

They said—in case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of said office—"the same shall devolve on the vice president." They didn't say who decided on presidential disability.

They specifically left it up to Congress by law to say who became president if there was no president or vice president. Congress acted promptly, in a limited way.

By act of March 1, 1793, Congress provided for the Senate's president pro tempore and the speaker of the House, in that order, to succeed to the presidency if there was no president or vice president.

Congress wasn't satisfied. After 93 years it passed another act—on Jan. 19, 1886—knocking out the 1793 act and saying now that, if there was no president or vice president, the line of succession should be through the Cabinet, starting with the secretary of state.

After 61 more years, Congress by act of July 18, 1947, changed the line of succession again. Now it goes this way: Speaker of the House, the Senate's president pro tempore, and then the Cabinet.

House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts is now 72 and the Senate's president pro tempore, Carl Hayden of Arizona, is 86.)

On the line of succession perhaps the most influential and persuasive suggestion was made this week by a group of lawyers called together by the American Bar Association.

They don't like the present arrangement—under that act of 1947—and suggest a constitutional amendment providing that when there is no vice president the president should nominate a person "who, upon approval by a majority of Congress in joint session, shall then become vice president."

This proposal has had a good response in Congress. Even if Congress approved and sent it to the states for ratification, this takes a lot of time and meanwhile there is no vice president.

But there is far more dispute over solving the question of presidential disability. There is no law covering this.

This is what causes uneasiness: Suppose a president feels he is no longer disabled and wants to take back his duties from the vice president but there is wide doubt that he is capable?

For this reason, it has been proposed that some group of government officials — the Cabinet, or Congress, or a commission — should decide when a president is no longer disabled. This is a big tangle, with perhaps no answer in sight.

The Well Child

Have Silent Partner?

It's a common complaint among wives that their husbands never talk to them when they spend the evening at home together.

But here's a switch. It's a letter from a man who says his wife hasn't the least interest in listening to anything he has to tell her about his day.

He writes: "The average husband upon reaching home doesn't expect the family to gather around and listen to him with bated breath.

"But it is pretty discouraging to come home ready to unburden my bit of joy, grief or prize gripe of the day and find the television going full blast, my wife more interested in telling me what the children have been up to all day than in listening to anything I've saved up to tell her — and often to be interrupted in the middle of a story to have her jump to her feet because she has suddenly remembered something she has to do."

Maybe it would be a good idea for the wives who do complain that their husbands never tell them anything to think over that husband's remarks.

It just could be that the husband who doesn't talk much around the house really doesn't feel that he has a chance.

Either because the children have never been taught to give their parents a little peace and quiet, or because the television or hi-fi are always blaring forth or because his wife is really more interested in talking than in listening.

Conversation is an art that has to be encouraged, even in the home. And a man is much more likely to be confiding when he is relaxed and at ease in a peaceful atmosphere and his wife seems in a listening mood.

Dialogue from Washington

By VERA CLAY

President Charles De Gaulle of France has let it be known that he officially is going to recognize Red China.

This is causing teeth gnashing at the State Department and in the White House. But "le grande Charles" has a unique personality, as our diplomats and others have learned sadly over the years, and his visions of France's place in the western global scheme, bear more often than not, no relation to our concept of cooperation and unity.

Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy learned to live with the towering (both physically and mentally) leader of La Belle France, our longtime friend and ally, who has fought with us time and time again and who has given us wines, perfumes, heros (Lafayette), magnificent food, haute couture, the Statue of Liberty, the city, Paris, which belongs to the world, and an ability to enjoy life—"joi de vivre."

President Lyndon B. Johnson is a towering personality in his own right and possibly Monsieur De Gaulle will do as he pleases no matter what. American Presidents may come and go but Charles De Gaulle will go on, apparently forever. It is a foreign policy position with which the United States has had to learn to live.

Yet, even if General De Gaulle blocks us in some areas, it is impossible for Americans to dislike the French. Too many American soldiers have left their hearts, and some, their lives, on French soil.

Nevertheless, Monsieur De Gaulle strains our patience more than occasionally. He strides through history, a story book character who will not fit into any mold. He is a man who truly walks alone. No amount of cajoling will change him. He has a grand design for France, and, until the day he dies, and perhaps, even afterward, Charles De Gaulle will reign.

Actually, Red China is a great land mass, an operating state which does exist. We cannot erase it from the map. The government of Formosa which we do recognize as the existing China is infinitesimal in comparison. But, we, at this time, do not feel we want to recognize a government whose leaders repeat monotonously that they do not believe in co-existence. We do not want to give a stamp of approval to such a wild, aggressive, oriental nation which constantly brandishes weapons, bares teeth and intense hatred of the Western World.

There are those, even within the State Department, who claim our position is unrealistic; they say we always have recognized de facto governments and that recognition does not necessarily mean approval. We have recognized the Soviet Union since 1933 and nobody has to be told that we do not approve of its form of government. But, this, we are told, is different. The Russians are behaving in a more conciliatory manner; we can learn to get along with them. In fact, over a period of years, we have. The relations have been strained, to say the least, but, there have been relations.

France, meantime, with President Charles De Gaulle at the helm, will pursue a policy which will benefit France, first, and the rest of the world later. Thus, Red China will be recognized by France. We can wring our hands until the end of time, but we will not move Charles De Gaulle.

The Doctor Says

Plastic That Lines Fry Pan Gives Voice to Speechless

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

If you have ever tried to call out in the course of a nightmare and couldn't shout above a whisper, you can understand the nightmare of a permanent loss of voice.

Paralysis of the vocal cord on one side may occur from various causes; the result is an inability to make yourself heard.

Until recently the treatment of this condition has been unsatisfactory. Efforts have been made to strengthen or tighten the loose cord by injecting a foreign substance in it that will not set up an inflammatory reaction and will not disappear from the tissues by absorption.

Over 50 years ago a physician in Germany used paraffin for this purpose. The idea was good, but the foreign substance he used was not. In the intervening years, injectable emulsions were made of cartilage particles or bone dust mixed with glycerin or otherwise treated to give them the consistency of toothpaste. These worked better than the paraffin.

The metal tantalum, after being pulverized, was also tried but none of these has given such good results as are being obtained by Dr. Robert B. Lewy, a well-known Chicago surgeon. He uses a paste made from a plastic called Teflon, the same substance that is now used to line frying pans and for a variety of other purposes. This is a tetrafluorethylene polymer which is chemically the most inert plastic yet produced.

Dr. Lewy explained that vocal sound is possible only when there is a tension or tightening in both the right and left vocal cords while the exhaled air is passing between them. After the mixture is injected into the paralyzed cord the glycerin in the mixture is absorbed, but the Teflon remains and gives solid support to the cord. Although the cord is still paralyzed, enough of the plastic is injected to make the cord about one and one-half times its normal thickness and this is sufficient to act with the non-paralyzed cord on the opposite side to produce normal voice sounds.

The results have been dramatically shown by making tape recordings of the voice before and after the operation. This operation requires only 10 or 15 minutes and is done under local anesthesia. Those who have needed the operation have been enthusiastic about the results.

Clothes Safe Despite Birds

DEAR POLLY — I have a bird sanctuary as well as one of the umbrella-type clothes dryers in my yard. I made a plastic cover to go over the top of the clothes dryer and if a light rain comes up quickly, my clothes are safe. If the birds eat purple berries, which they tend to drop, my clothes are still safe. It looks so attractive I could move a small table and my chaise under the dryer and serve tea. So my birds feel welcome, there are no clothes to wash over and my chaise is in the shade. What more could one ask? Hold the cover securely with tapes or a clothespin at each corner. Both can be removed or replaced quickly and easily. — ALDA

DEAR POLLY — I have always hated to spend the money for a colander to use in draining foods such as spaghetti and I recently discovered that my flat food grater does the job nicely. Just hold it over the pan and pour off the liquid.

One of our children's favorite

Our two boys have spent many hours during the past two years rolling or sliding small toys down it from one to the other, using it as a big telescope or making funny noises to delight the others as kids like to do in a tunnel. A coat of paint has helped preserve it so that it has even survived being used as a flume for summer garden hose play and all the kids ride it as a "horse" on the sidewalk. — G. H. C.

Snow Not Rubbish; Charge Is Dropped

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Police accused Lloyd Daxon of Saugus of shoveling snow into the street and thus violating an ordinance against cluttering streets with "waste, rubbish or filth."

Judge M. Edward Viola dismissed the charge.

"I can't see snow as rubbish," he said. "People like it and you hear poems about it. Besides, God gave it to us and we'd have a hard time to prove he discarded it."

NEW YORK—The spring fashion scene has lined up lots of competition for barber poles, zebras and old-time prison uniforms. Stripes are everywhere.

It all started a few seasons back with St. Laurent's Damon Runyon-style striped suit. Galanos continued to use stripes in many collections, and now New York's Seventh Avenue goes all out with stripes for spring. You'll find them on all fabrics from wool to crepe and on everything from suits to evening gowns.

There are cardigan suits of gray worsted, chalk-striped in white, navy pencil-striped suits, trimmed with white pique, red and navy-striped blazers and abstract - striped crepe evening dresses.

Among some of the most attractive striped costumes of the season are the knits. One three-piece double knit outfit has a cape coat and skirt in pin stripes teamed with a solid color blouse. Another smart three-piece co-ordinates a striped sleeveless jacket and skirt with a long-sleeved solid color blouse.

Most of the stripes themselves are white, but you'll find them combined with soft spring pastels of pink, pale green and aqua as well as with the deeper tones of tobacco, dark blue and black.

They're trim, neat and new for spring and there are styles to suit everyone.

Of the estimated 1.6 million persons, who'll marry this year, half of them are just bound to be men. The other half will be—well, the reader can probably figure that out herself.

The single girl this year has an edge. This is leap year. All is not lost!

Leap year is the one out of every four when members of the fair sex, according to tradition, can shed the shackles of being passive, tacit and beguiling, and pursue the man of her choice.

Chances of the woman alone and not liking it, of finding a man to waltz her down the aisle depend—on several things—her age, her occupation and where she lives.

The most popular marrying age for women is 23, although nine out of ten persons marry before they are 32. The singleton between 23 and 24 has one chance in five of landing her man this year.

A 50-50 chance exists at 30, but if you are past 40, the ratio is less.

Within five years, three-fourths of all divorced persons remarry. Widows in the 30 to 40 age group mark the same statistics, but with each passing decade, chances drop — much more so than for divorced women.

Men average a marrying age of 22; but the average age for a man to propose is 26 or 27.

Although men usually like their women intelligent and mature, education beyond the high school level lessens, with each added year's education, her chances of marrying. However formal learning after she's married lessens the chance of divorce. It would follow that it might be smart to get the MRS. and then the PHD.

Dr. Theodor Reik, psychologist says flatly that men are afraid of being married. That so many of them are and seem pretty comfortable, is possibly due to singlemindedness of the noble female muses the doctor. (The doctor doesn't give his marital status.)

The bachelor girl should face it, some of the men available are just not worth the effort.

Put down for possible elimination — the guy who's stingy, the woman-hater and the Don Juan. However, of those three possibilities, some of the woman haters just have had unhappy experiences with a mother or girl friend and conclude that women are just no cotton pickin' good. The right female with the right sympathies might convince them both he can risk marriage. "He who criticizes the wares buys."

Don Juan may just think he's a dashing adventurer. Whether post-nuptial wanderlust will be a problem depends on how deep-seated his complex is in the first place. He may be relieved to stop flitting around and light someplace for good.

If the prospective mate is more than 30 years of age, there are less than three chances in four he will marry. If he is over 50 there is one slim chance in three of landing him. (Be sure to find out how old he is!)

Almost one third of America's yet uncumbered males swarm to the metropolitan areas of New York, California, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Each state has a million and more stags within its boundaries. But there are just as many women of similar status there too. Women are scarce in Western States, Hawaii and Alaska. Alaska has four unmarried males to every unmarried female. Mush!

Washington, Miami and Los Angeles, where they're either too young, too old, or to repulsive, and little towns, where the bachelor scene is relatively unchanging, are places to avoid if the altar is the goal.

Occupations where the gals nearly always get their man include air line hostesses, nurses, office workers and waitresses.

about his favorite weapons. The sultan will talk less about threatening terrorism and the changing world that has seen Brunei shrink from onetime ruler of all Borneo island to a 2,226-square mile speck in the jungle.

"What has happened should not have happened," was as far as he would go in an interview. In reply to a question on economic development, an interpreter replied that various plans are being considered, "as far as his highness knows."

The sultan's personal wealth is not known, but informed officials predict Brunei's income in 1964 will total about $35 million, almost all of it from oil pumped by Shell Petroleum Co.

School teachers cut themselves off from the supply line.

Beauty operators, whose customers are women, have to have after hour contacts to meet men.

But, cut a wide swath around: the pedestal-pouters, those guys who insist they worship women—pure, virtuous, noble women. They are terrified of any real relationship and place the woman on a pedestal to avoid any close contact.

Shun the Narcissist, the one having a steaming love affair with himself. Walk on by. The competition — himself — will be too strong.

The self-deprecator, constantly impressing you with his defects, his failings and his inhibitions, simply won't have time to make a pass at you, much less marry you. He's too absorbed in his psychological hypochondriacism, says psychologist Dr. Harold Greenwald. Well, you said it, Doctor! Whatever it means, let it be the self-deprecator's problem. (If you have to carry a dictionary while man hunting, you'll scare 'em to death.)

And Mama's boy! You don't stand a chance against mama. And it's not always mama's fault. Maybe the boy just likes the comfort and security of his parent's home. He won't have to face uncertainties and responsibilities with someone else. If he does come around in a few decades it may be in a wheelchair.

However, aside from these unlikelys, there are all kinds of men and fortunately, they like all kinds of women.

Robert Reed, co-star of the TV Show, "The Defenders," says:

"For my part, I prefer to do more listening than talking. In that way I find out whether the young lady is the one for me. I might add, and I think it's quite obvious, the risk is all hers. Unfair? Perhaps. But then 1964 is leap year and somebody has to take a chance."

Clifton Faddiman, crusty sophisticated host of TV's "Alumni Fun," says — "People classify me as an egghead, and, if that's true, my view is that the best thing a young lady can do to win a fellow is to develop her mind, read some good books so that she will have something worthwhile to say. Of course, I'm not unmindful of other feminine qualities highly desirable—I'm not THAT much of an egg head. But to paraphrase the ancient Greeks, 'a sound mind and sound body—that's an unbeatable combination.'"

Paul Anka, recording star speaks — "A girl should concern herself with basic things in a relationship with a man. She should at all times, be herself; talkative, if she's talkative, shy if she's shy. Although she should not be overly aggressive, I realize it's the nature of some girls to react that way in situations with certain types of men. A girl should not be ashamed, or even reluctant to display natural emotions. Any girl who acts naturally is beautiful! And, any guy she sets her cap for had better head for the hills!"

Neil Sedaka, youthful recorder states—"I feel that a girl has a better chance to catch a guy if she plays to his song. If his mood of the moment becomes important to her and she attunes herself, she will become important to him. Despite many changes in male and female relationships today, the man still wears the pants, the man still brings home the bacon. And this man feels that the woman's place in his life is beside him—with him—rather than way out in front of him, somewhere, doing her own solo."

John Gary—"A woman should do anything and everything in her power—which is more than considerable—to grab us poor guys. All's fair in the war of the sexes, where there are really no Fail Safe points and just about everything goes. By all means, a woman should go all out in this delightful fracas; she's got nothing to lose but love itself and that's what catches us all!"

Johnny Carson, the Tonight show, and a recent bridegroom. "A girl should keep the individuality she displayed when the fellow became interested in her and not become his reflection as the courtship continues. She should quit using the word we in casual conversation."

Paul Richards, the Breaking Point — "Be outspoken, outstanding and outgoing."

Frank Buxton, Discovery — "Don't be equal. As far as I am concerned, equality breeds contempt and old maids. Forget everything you ever heard about the emancipation of women. That comes with the wedding ring."

David Jannssen, The Fugitives — "I've always been impressed with any girl who tells the man she's really not interested in getting married, and then proceeds to show him all the little ways he can't do without her."

Hugh Downs, the Today Show — "A girl should never push in the direction of matrimony since that has the effect of frightening away most men. She should maintain a sincere interest in the guy's activities and attitudes and most men will drift toward matrimony by some law of gravity."

Not very encouraging is Broadway glamour man, Van Heflin. He says, "If a girl can't get a man during the other three years she should forget it."

And if all else fails—remind him of these statistically backed facts: He can save on taxes. He'll get ahead in business faster. If he's running for office, he'll get more votes. He can rent property faster. He'll avoid the draft. He might have an heir. He might live longer. He may avoid a lonely old age . . . and he might even like being married.

It's leap year, girls. Leap!

John Daly
Show Near
15th Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—On a chill winter's night in 1950, a CBS newscaster turned entertainer uttered for the first time what has since become a famous line:

"Will our first contestant enter and sign in, please?"

It was the evening of Feb. 2, and the premiere show of that television institution, "What's My Line?"

The speaker was John Daly, and over the past 14 years, he has repeated, with minor variations, the same phrase more than 2,800 times in about 700 programs.

In a department of show business in which a two-year-old program is considered good and three years great, 14 seasons is a television miracle. "What's My Line?" shares longevity honors with only one other program, the Ed Sullivan Show that started about a year earlier.

The Sullivan show, however, has experienced many changes. About the only basic change that has occurred on "What's My Line?" has been in the composition of the panel.

Daly has been host and anchor man through the years and has missed only four performances during the entire period. Columnist Dorothy Kilgallen sat on the first panel and is still one of the vital ingredients of the program's continuing success. Arlene Francis, the other woman regular, joined the show for its second performance. Publisher Bennett Cerf was added in May 1951.

For the first six years, the four panelists were regulars. Now the fourth chair is reserved for guests on the theory that a combination of new faces and the regulars give the program its perennial appeal.

Steve Allen was a permanent panelist for over a year between 1955 and 1956, alternating with Fred Allen, who stayed until his death.

Gil Fates, executive producer who has been with the show for 13 years, points out that the program now has contestants whose lines didn't even exist when it was born—an airman who spent seven days in a space chamber, the executive officer of an atomic submarine, a rock 'n' roll composer, the head of astronaut John H. Glenn's launch team and a director of the Peace Corps, among others. "We've also had as contestants, youngsters who were not even born when the program started," he adds.

For about the first five years, the show barred return engagements of its mystery guests.

"We try for people who are so well known that the audience recognizes them on sight," Fates says. "And we learned that there just were not enough of them so we let some return from time to time."

Close to 700 mystery guests have appeared on the program, a veritable "who's who" of celebrities.

Expression's Origin

The expression "to mind one's P's and Q's" originated in old English taverns, where a record was kept of the liquor purchases of the guests by tallying the pints and quarts as they were imbibed.

Mysterious Origin

Origin of the historic Stonehenge monument in England remains a mystery. This circle of neolithic stones is thought to have been erected more than 4,000 years ago by a migratory Bronze Age tribe.

20th Century Resistance By Borneo

BRUNEI TOWN, Sultanate of Brunei — Almost oblivious to the changing world and yet threatened by it, the Sultanate of Brunei moves along at almost a 19th Century clip.

So little happens in this north-west Borneo area that people gather in the doorways just to watch it rain. It rains a lot, up to 200 inches a year.

Even for Borneo, Brunei is a startling example of resistance to the 20th Century. Though the tiny nation is rich in oil, its citizens — about 80,000 by most estimates — make do with 87 miles of roads, a low standard of living, and a daily airline connection over the jungle to the outside world.

But a revolutionary fever of rapid political and economic change grips other states along the sweltering Borneo coast, threatening to swamp Brunei.

British troops have been fighting in the neighboring states of Sabah and Sarawak to crush terrorist bands attacking from Indonesian Borneo in an effort to shatter the new Federation of Malaysia.

Brunei, which rejected the federation in favor of continuing as an outright British protectorate, already has tasted its neighbors' trouble. More is almost certain to come.

A revolt in December 1962 nearly succeeded before Britain rushed in troops. Surviving rebels fled to Indonesia. They are there today, growling at Brunei and its ruler.

The ruler is the Sultan Sir Omar Lai Saifuddin Saadul Khairi Waddin, a dapper man of 49 who gives out medals with titles almost as long as his own.

The sultan, a Moslem, lives in an ornate hilltop palace. On ceremonial days it is awash with guards clad in red silk and glittering shields. On these days the sultan dresses regally in the fashion of his royal ancestors who can be traced back to 1500.

On ordinary days he prefers London-tailored tweeds for putting about in the air-conditioned game rooms of the palace. His great passion is gun and sword collecting, and he will spend hours telling visitors about his favorite weapons. The sultan will talk less about threatening terrorism and the changing world that has seen Brunei shrink from onetime ruler of all Borneo island to a 2,226-square mile speck in the jungle.

"What has happened should not have happened," was as far as he would go in an interview. In reply to a question on economic development, an interpreter replied that various plans are being considered, "as far as his highness knows."

The sultan's personal wealth is not known, but informed officials predict Brunei's income in 1964 will total about $35 million, almost all of it from oil pumped by Shell Petroleum Co.

OBITUARIES

Vallie E. Waller (Versailles)

Mrs. Vallie E. Waller, 70, Versailles, wife of F. M. Waller, died Jan. 29 at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born in Morgan County July 15, 1893, daughter of the late Thomas and Mary Kile Grant. Nov. 30, 1919, she was married to F. M. Waller, who survives of the home.

Surviving, in addition to the husband, are one sister, Mrs. Gladys Garbek, Tipton; one brother, Burl Grant, Denver, Colo.

The Farm Bureau," he continued, "is for a new wheat program, new cotton program and civil rights program, which," he stated "are vital to the Missouri farm people. There is a need to have legislation for a total farm program or segments of it to strengthen the farmer."

"The farmer may volunteer to retire his entire land or part of it, rent his machinery, but to make his land available," he said. "With the 35 hour week coming and more leisure, some farmers have developed recreational areas. Government has secured land for recreation and that land cannot be brought back into farming," he added.

Programs in Congress, Gray said, on wheat and cotton production, the payment is large in the minds of the sponsors of the bills but government payment weakens, rather than strengthens. He pointed out that there was need for education and understanding of the wheat and cotton program and civil rights, and it is the responsibility as citizens to do something about it. The only way for evil to prevail, he concluded, is for good men to do nothing.

Lynn Wagenknecht, chairman of the livestock committee, served as master of ceremonies, and invocation was given by Frank Van Dyke.

Other speakers on the program were Bill Coons, Kansas City, who talked on the hog market and what was expected, and Sam Rowe, from the Producers' near Marshall Junction. The big building between Sedalia and Marshall Junction provides a market place for those in the area who have a few hogs to sell. These are considered by the sorting through weight and grade and they then assign hogs to order they have. People don't like to sort the inferior from the best, but, Rowe pointed out, this should be done. The man who has good quality hogs should be paid for them.

The last speaker on the program was Smokey Woods, Columbia, who stated that the position of lamb was good, and that the wool market in 1963 was good but it would be better in 1964. This, he explained, is because the supply equals the demand.

Woods went on to say that cattle is being imported from Australia, and other countries, and the exports going out were such things as machinery and cars. This is hurting the American stock raisers, because it is cutting in on their markets. There must be something done about this, he said, and he urged the farmers to write their senators and congressman and explain the situation to them in their own words.

He suggested that Missouri farmers keep their stock until they are older and weigh more and then sell them. The cost of feed will not come near the profits they will receive and that money for cattle of greater weight would mean much to this area and this state instead of letting them go to other states to feed and sell for higher prices and profits.

Agriculture means much in this area and in Missouri, he said, and there must be an America at work so America can play.

Matt Green introduced special guests at the meeting, Miss Opal O'Brian and Lloyd Lewellen from the Pettis County University of Missouri Extension Center, Mrs. Cloyce Wilson, president of the 4th District Farm Bureau Women's Organization, Bruce Claycomb, ASC committee members, Dale Clingen, vice-president of the Pettis County Farm Bureau, Dick Monsees, past president of the Farm Bureau, Jim White, Pettis County agency manager and Carl Raines, Producers; Walter Nicholson and Jerry Conway who are in charge of the annual barbecue.

Participating in this were the following: Altrusa Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Golden Agers Club, Job's Daughters, Kiwanis Club, Veterans of World War I and Veterans of World War II Auxiliary, and a group of girl students from Heber High Elementary school who sang carols downtown.

On behalf of the Army, Captain Weber, who is also president of the BPWC, presented to Mrs. Dorothy Huddleston, representing that group, a first place plaque for the BPWC who turned in $462.15. The Kiwanis Club received a plaque for second place by turning in $147.93; and the Golden Agers, a third place plaque for collecting $73.86. Mrs. Minnie Ratje accepted the plaque for the Golden Agers.

Certificates of appreciation were given other organizations, Mrs. Ratje accepting also for the Veterans of World War I Auxiliary; Mrs. Gladys Michaels for Altrusa; Gayle Rose

University Professor Found Dead

COLUMBIA (AP)—Gordon B. Nance, emeritus professor at the University of Missouri was credited with a major role in making southeast Missouri cotton the state's largest cash crop was found dead of a bullet wound in the head at his home Thursday.

Dr. Richard Johnson, Boone County coroner, ruled death was caused by a self-inflicted wound from a .38 pistol. He said as far as he knows the professor left no note.

Prof. Nance would have been 71 on March 2. He has been on the university staff on a part-time basis since a heart attack in 1956.

Mrs. Nance found her husband about 4 p. m. on the floor of the garage which adjoins the home. Investigators reported a pistol was on the floor within reach.

Nance still owned an interest in the farm where he was born in Kentucky's Ballard County. He graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1917 and was a county farm agent in Kentucky nine years before he came to the University of Missouri in 1930.

He had been at the university since then except for a brief assignment as farm agent in New Madrid County in the southeast Missouri delta country.

With two other members of the university staff, Prof. W. C. Etheridge and Prof. Charles A. Helm, Nance worked to develop strains of cotton particularly adapted to soil and climate conditions in southeast Missouri. He also persuaded producers and processors to adopt these strains. Southeast Missouri cotton soon was attracting premium prices because of the uniformity of its staple length.

Nance became an associate professor of agricultural extension in 1943 and a full professor in 1946. In 1955, he was named a professor of agricultural economics. After his heart attack, he specialized in market price research.

Man Arraigned For Murder Committed 24 Years Ago In Mo.

BOLIVAR, Mo. (AP)—A 54-year-old laborer, returned here for trial in a slaying committed 24 years ago, was arraigned Thursday and his preliminary hearing set for Feb. 17.

Samuel Edwin Collins was returned Wednesday night from Las Vegas, Nev., where he surrendered earlier this month, claiming he had committed a killing for hire near Pleasant Hope, Mo.

The victim of the alleged killing was Bob Wilcox, a 74-year-old farmer.

Prosecutor Willard Leavitt said Collins turned himself in, saying his conscience was bothering him. He is said to have told officers he was paid $1,000 for killing Wilcox and that he did it by backing his truck into him and smashing the farmer against a building.

The prosecutor said the man named by Collins as having hired him is now dead.

Capt. Weber reported that 926 persons benefited from the Christmas contributions and she expressed thanks to all Sedalians, Pettis Countians and Central Missourians who help sustain the activities of the Salvation Army, either individually or through their organizations.

Salvation Army Advisory board members include the following: One year term — Lacy Belt, Kennie Miller, George Duhon, Sr., John Ellison, George H. Scruton, Vivian E. Warren and Richard E. Witcig. Two year term—Mary B. Chipman, Marjorie Garansson, Del Heckart, Robert Malone, L. A. Pharris, Henry C. Salveter, Abe Silverman. Three year term—Joseph R. Allen, Clinton Black, Jess Brown, Robert Lindstrom, W. A. Smith, Bertha Welch and A. H. Wilks.

Participating in this were the following: Altrusa Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Golden Agers Club, Job's Daughters, Kiwanis Club, Veterans of World War I and Veterans of World War II Auxiliary, and a group of girl students from Heber High Elementary school who sang carols downtown.

Panel Shows Not Easy As They Appear

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Rayburn, who guides the progress of NBC's daytime "Match Game," insists that participating in a panel show is not as easy as it looks.

Rayburn, whose broadcasting experience includes announcing, disc jockeying and acting, says that players and host must not only concentrate on the game at hand but also give the session "dimensions of vitality, lightness, and humor."

Rayburn, in addition to presiding over "Match Game," a guessing game, often turns up as a panelist on other shows.

"To Tell the Truth," he says, is the most difficult game to play.

"People seem to think the panel has some advance information about the contestants," he said. "We don't know a single thing until the information is read off. It's a fast game in which a lot of information helps. Peggy Cass, on the panel, absolutely amazes me."

Rayburn grew up in Chicago, got into radio by becoming an NBC page boy and moved on to announcing. In 1942 he had a radio show on a New York station, then teamed up with Jack Lescault—now of "Today"—for a comedy show.

For the past 12 years, Rayburn has worked as a single—announcing, hosting and sitting on panels and occasionally doing a dramatic role.

"My biggest headache is trying to figure out new ways of introducing the panelists. I write out five different sets of introductions for the show's celebrities each week," he said.

CBS, still putting together its 1964-65 schedule, plans to make its formal announcement early next week. Among the new shows pretty certain to be on its schedule are comedy series starring Cara Williams, late of "Pete and Gladys," and Jim Nabors, playing Gomer Pyle, a character invented on the "Andy Griffith Show."

"The Lucy Show" is almost certain to remain as is—a half hour. "The Defenders" is expected to move to Tuesday nights to make room for Caril Burnett's "The Entertainers" on Saturday.

DOES YOUR HEALTH
INSUR-ANCE HAVE THE
TO DO
THE JOB

The health insurance program you signed up for as recently as a year or two ago may leave you pretty short today. Costs of hospital care and medical treatment keep going up. When it comes time to use the plan you have, you may need to dig pretty deep to make up the difference between the amount of the hospital
